JAILED FOR JOB DONE BY 'BABY FACE'

Justice will begin to lean tomorrow toward Harold Taylor of Quincy, and he may get out of State Prison within a few weeks instead of four or seven years from now.

It seems, from investigation by the police and the district attorney's office, begun at the instigation of Fr. Michael Murphy, Catholic chaplain at the State Prison, that Taylor, although convicted of a holdup by a jury, didn't commit the holdup at all.

Instead, the holdup of Zaharias Halkapourlos in his Back Bay variety store had Harold Smith described by the police as "the baby-face bandit" as the man back of the gun.

"Baby-face," according to Assistant District Attorney Frederick M. J. Sheehan, confessed to the holdup today. He is serving a sentence of from nine to twenty years in State Prison for a series of holdups.

Lions for Coolidge! May Set Them on the Tiger!

Washington, March 11 (A.P.).—Two lion cubs are on the way from South Africa to be added to the White House menagerie without any enthusiastic approval from Jackson Wilson, the negro attendant of the Presidential pets.

The city of Johannesburg notified President Coolidge today that the cubs had been shipped to Washington.

JAPAN FOR NAVY CUT

Washington, March 11 (A.P.).—A hope that France and Italy will decide eventually to participate in the naval conference at Geneva was expressed to Acting Secretary Grew today by Ambassador Matsudaira in communicating Japan's unconditional acceptance of American proposals for a three-power conference.

The ambassador said the Japanese government would take part in any event, but that it was the feeling in Tokio it would be highly desirable for France and Italy also to come in. Both have declined invitations.

IDENTIFIES SLUGGER AND DROPS

Matthew F. Carmody, ex-soldier of South Boston, was today identified by Mrs. Florence Mourad of Winthrop as the slugger who attacked her in the Battery station of the Narrow Gauge railroad in Revere last Saturday.

"That is the man," screamed Mrs. Mourad as she picked the ex-soldier from seven men lined up in the Winthrop police station, and then the woman pitched forward in a dead faint.

But while Carmody is linked strongly with the Winthrop case, Boston police, who arrested the man, refuse to give him up to the Win-

MRS. STANDISH FOUND GUILTY; ON PROBATION

Mrs. Sarah Mildred Standish, beautiful young society wife of Providence, whose husband trapped her in a raid in a Cambridge apartment with a Harvard Law School student, was today found guilty of a statutory offense in East Cambridge District Court.

She was given an indefinite sentence to the Women's Reformatory at Sherborn, but this was suspended until November 5. Until that date she is on probation and if her conduct is satisfactory to court officials she will not have to serve the term.

Ormand Cook, the student, having pleaded guilty to a similar charge, was placed on probation until November 28.

POET SEEKS DEATH FOR LOVE OF BOYER'S WIFE

Out of its skein of the tragic threads of life, Fate has again thrown its shadow across the affairs of the former Rector Francis B. Boyer, widely known in Massachusetts and at one time curate of the fashionable Church of the Advent in Boston.

For the second time within five years suicide brings his name to people's lips.

Five years ago Mrs. Bernice Boucher, beautiful Back Bay manicurist, drank a fatal dose of poison in her Commonwealth avenue apartment, and the name she called out as she died was discovered to be

2 DRY AGENTS, 8 OTHERS GUILTY IN HI-JACKING

New Bedford, March 11 (I.N.S.).—Ten men, including two former New York prohibition agents, were found guilty today in Superior Court of conspiracy to steal smuggled liquors valued at $250,000.

The liquor was owned by Max Fox of this city and was taken from the Durfee farm at Somerset in a hi-jacking raid.

The former prohibition officers found guilty are Alex Westerlind and Clarence Lovatt. The others are Arthur Ryan and John J. Tulte, of this city, and Manuel Ferreira, Rogert Ferreira, Frank Amaral, William S. Peters and Edward Figuerido, all of Fall River.

La Fante, charged with having brought the Federal agents into the deal, was sentenced to two years in jail and fined $500; Westerlind, 15 months and fined $500; Lovatt, 12 months and $100 fine; Tulte and Ryan six months and $100 fine.

Manuel Ferreira and Amaral were each fined $100. Charges against the others were filed.

'Heroic 56' Weep as Death Takes Frick

Evanston, Ill., March 11.—The "heroic 56," the "endless chain" which strove with might and main for 110 hours in St. Francis Hospital to keep the breath of life in the body of Alfred Frick, wept as the gallant youth's heart failed even as two of the heroes were pumping air into his lungs.

The strain had been too great for the heart of the courageous youth, stricken with Landry's paralysis more than a week ago. And with the snapping of his life thread snapped also the nerves of the "Heroic 56," and sobs filled the corridors of this hospital as they gave way to grief.

Untiring work turned to grief when Dr. H. H. Conley bent over the patient and announced that the heart had ceased to beat.

Doctors early in the evening announced that there was no chance for their patient to live, unless he could get some needed rest, and the terrific pace at which his heart was beating could be eased.

Dr. Conley announced that the pulse was 128, almost double the normal rate. It had been pumping at this rate for more than five days.

Frick was suffering from Landry's paralysis. It first made its appearance a week ago following the extraction of two teeth. He complained of cramps in the stomach, and of a headache.

His case was diagnosed as intestinal influenza and it was treated as that. Friday his condition became worse.

M'GAULEY IN BATTLE WITH WIFE'S LAWYER

Dr. Walter G. McGauley of Jamaica Plain, former mayoralty candidate, launched a bitter battle with his fists against Roberts B. Owen, counsel for his wife, today in Pemberton square courthouse corridors.

The battle followed a hearing in which Mrs. Anna McGauley was awarded $100 back alimony and $4 a day, pending hearing of a separate support suit April 13.

Even with his counsel, a court officer and another lawyer battling to break up the quarrel, McGauley continued to punch until sheer weight of numbers bore him down and he was led out of the building, charging that Owen had called him a bootlegger.

Meanwhile, in Probate Court, where the hearing had been held, the doctor's wife was asking Judge Prest if he would assign a court officer to escort her out a rear exit.

She declared that she was afraid McGauley might attack her in his rage if she went out alone. Judge

BOMB ARMORED CARS; GET $100,000; 5 HURT

Pittsburgh, March 11 (A.P.).—Nine armed bandits escaped in an automobile with a $100,000 payroll of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company today after bombing two armored cars containing the money and an escort as the two machines approached the Coverdale mine of the concern, about six miles from Pittsburgh.

Five men, occupants of the two automobiles, were injured in the explosions which occurred after the machines had left the main highway and had driven down a side road about 300 feet toward the mine.

The bombs, set off just as the armored cars were going through an under passage of the Montour Railroad, wrecked the automobiles.

The bandits then grabbed the payroll and sped away in a car they had parked nearby.

Police and detectives from Pittsburgh headquarters, seeking to get information, found that all telephone wires in the vicinity of the Coverdale mine had been severed. A line was ordered rerouted through nearby towns to establish telephone connection.

M'GAULEY IN A FIST FIGHT

Prest had her escorted through his lobby and to a car by Court Officer Fred Finnegan, who had just ended participation in the corridor battle.

The battle, which threw the first floor of the courthouse into an uproar, occurred when Attorney Owen appeared in the corridor from Probate Court. McGauley had preceded him with his counsel, Frank C. Montague.

As Atty. Owen appeared, McGauley went over to him.

"Did you call me a bootlegger?" he demanded. And then his fist shot out.

According to the lawyer, he dodged the collision, but according to McGauley, the fist hit Owen squarely in the eye.

In an instant, McGauley's lawyer was across the corridor attempting to pull him away, but he still shot punches at the lawyer.

Then Court Officer Finnegan and Atty. Samuel Armstrong, who was passing through the corridor, jumped in and ended the encounter.

McGauley now has three alienation of affection suits pending against Atty. John F. Myron, brother-in-law of his wife; Atty. Myron's wife, Catherine McLoughlin, and her sister, Mary M. McLoughlin the latter two, sister of Mrs. McGauley. The suits total $75,000.

"It is all a family squabble," said McGauley.

ELLISON LOSES SEARLES SUIT

New York, March 11 (I.N.S.)—Angelo Milton Ellison, former elevator operator, today lost his fight for a large share of the fortune of his millionaire benefactor, the late Edward F. Searles of Methuen, Mass., when a Supreme Court jury returned a verdict against him.

The jury was out about two hours and found that Searles had not intended to leave Ellison more than the $10,000 in his will, and that no undue influence had been exerted by Arthur T. Walker, residuary legatee and defendant in the action.

Justice Townley in his charge to the jury said:

"The only evidence to support this claim is the uncorroborated testimony of Ellison. The mere fact of Searles' entertaining an affection for Ellison is not enough; the actual intention of Searles to leave his property to the plaintiff is necessary, otherwise the whole structure falls."

throp authorities. The Boston police believe Carmody may be the slayer of Maybelle Matheson, whose battered body was found in a field near her home in West Roxbury on Jan. 12.

DENIES MATHESON MURDER.

Carmody, when accused of the Matheson murder, declared he was serving a six months' sentence in the Hudson county penitentiary at Seacaucus, N. J., at the time of the murder. He declared he was sentenced under the name of Michael Connolly, an alias by which he was also known.

The Boston Evening American talked over the long-distance telephone with the warden of the New Jersey prison today. That officer said Michael Connolly had been released from his institution on Feb. 15, more than a month after the West Roxbury murder. Should Carmody turn out to be the Michael Connolly who served the prison sentence he will of course be freed from all connection with the West Roxbury murder.

SEND HIS FINGERPRINTS.

The Boston police will send photographs and fingerprints of Carmody to the New Jersey institution to make certain of the identity of the prisoner.

Carmody has a long criminal record, and practically all his crimes involve attacks on women. He has been sleeping in empty houses, freight cars or anywhere he could find shelter from the elements and has been prowling about Boston and vicinity and lurking in unsuspected places.

Carmody admitted today he was in Winthrop and near the Battery station at the time of the attack on Mrs. Mourad, but he denies the crime.

The identification of Carmody as the Winthrop slugger, today, was dramatic in the extreme. Carmody, manacled, was taken from Station 12 in Boston to Winthrop by Boston police. Seven men including the prisoner were placed in the guard room at the police station.

WOMAN IDENTIFIES HIM.

Mrs. Mourad and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, were ushered into the room. Mrs. Mourad, who was only released from the Winthrop Hospital Wednesday night, bore visible marks of the brutal attack made on her. Both her eyes were puffed and discolored, while her face was also marked.

The woman, visibly excited, swept the line of men with her eyes.

"That's him! That's him, the second one from the end," the woman screamed as she levelled her finger at Carmody. The prisoner did not flinch, and a moment later Mrs. Mourad crumpled forward on the floor in a dead faint.

The mother of the unconscious woman leaped forward and confronted the prisoner.

"You dirty brute," the elder woman screamed. "If I had a revolver I'd shoot you for attacking my daughter, who was ill. You dirty brute—"

MOTHER RESTRAINED.

At this point officers stepped between the enraged mother and the prisoner, fearing the woman, in her anger, would attack the man.

The unconscious woman was carried into an adjoining room and a physician summoned. It was necessary to work over her for more than an hour before she revived sufficiently to be taken home.

Meanwhile, other witnesses who had been summoned identified the ex-soldier as the man they saw loitering about Winthrop several days before the attack on Mrs. Mourad.

TEARS ARE SHED AS THE HEART OF FRICK STOPS BEATING

and Saturday he was removed to the hospital.

FEET BECAME NUMB.

Early Sunday, his feet became numb, and gradually the limbs became paralyzed. Then it crept upward until it reached the lungs, and the breathing muscles halted.

Dr. Conley and his assistant worked over him for three hours, giving him artificial respiration, but there was no change in his condition.

Then they called Henry Reesman, superintendent of the Evanston division of the Northern Illinois Public Utilities Company, which employed Frick.

"Can you send us some men?" he was asked. "This lad's life depends on artificial respiration."

Fifty six co-workers, buddies of the youth, who had been with the company only since September, volunteered, and the first crew was at the hospital within an hour.

WORK WAS TORTURE.

Then began the work of breathing into the body, torture for Frick, torture for the men, torture for the parents and friends of Frick.

Twenty eight times each minute the men pressed on his sides in monotonous routine, forcing the air out of the lungs, so fresh air might rush in. It hurt the boy.

Calmly he directed their movements.

"Harder," he would whisper, when he felt he did not have enough air.

"Softer," he would say when his lungs were filled.

Then he would call his father to his bed side.

"Show—them—how—to—do — it — Dad," he would say in a gasping breath.

And the father would tenderly press his hands on his son's chest.

Frick was cheerful throughout the 110 hours of gruelling pain, and wavering life. He smiled at jokes, and even cracked a few himself.

He asked for and was given teaspoonsfull of broth and milk. Glucose was administered into his stomach artificially.

Nerve and brain specialists from Chicago were called into consultation. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday passed, and Wednesday there was reported to be a change for the better in his condition.

He took a turn for the worse, but rallied, and even up until a few hours before death doctors expressed the hope that he would get better.

A RACE AGAINST TIME.

"He is holding his own," they would say.

"It is a race against time. If the paralysis will recede giving the lung muscles a chance to begin their work, before his heart gives out, then he will win."

But nature could not stand the terrific pressure and Frick lost.

The cruelest blow of all came to his little mother, who sat at home waiting for the verdict of life and death. She counted the minutes each minute a prayer, for her first born.

But her love, her son's will to live, his buddies untiring work could not beat nature.

His heart gave out.

WONDERFUL AND NICE, BUT NOT FOR HIM

Hollywood, Cal., March 11 (A.P.)—Stanford E. Comstock, wealthy Miami (Fla.) real estate operator, who was slated to be the fifth husband of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, says his engagement to the much-wed actress has been called off.

"Peggy is a wonderful girl—for somebody else," he declared in a real estate office he recently opened here.

As for Connie Almy, the cabaret entertainer, who also claims the affections of the Florida millionaire, Comstock says he never had any intentions of marrying her.

"Connie is a nice girl, and I have the highest regard for her," he explained.

Following a brief estrangement between Comstock and Miss Joyce, the cafe dancer announced her engagement to the Floridan. Later, when a reconciliation was reported, Miss Almy made the declaration that she would "recover Stan or die."

CRIME WAVE MYTHICAL, SAYS BISHOP LAWRENCE

PROBLEM IS HOW TO KEEP FOLKS OUT OF JAIL

The "crime wave" may in reality be largely mythical, according to Bishop Lawrence.

The noted churchman, speaking at the noonday lenten services in Keith's Theatre today, declared that police statistics show fewer arrests in 1925 and 1926 than in the preceding years.

"Whether there is a crime wave or not can be best answered, not by alarmists, but by those who have studied the subject," said the Bishop.

"The facts are that in this State the number of arrests in 1925 and 1926 shows not an increase, but a decrease. May it not be that the spectacular form of a certain class of crime, with revolvers and automobiles, has given rise to the fear of a crime wave?"

After recounting the change in public viewpoint toward the criminal, Bishop Lawrence declared "the State is now tackling the problem of keeping men and women out of prison.

"Our homes, schools and churches, our streets and lanes are where the criminals come from," said the Bishop, in conclusion. "A crop of good citizenship comes only from good field and soil. We, you and I, have our responsibilities and duties to see that the children, the boys and the girls, have the best chance for useful, happy lives.

"Let us stop looking upon offenders and criminals as essentially vicious and outlawed. Many are weak-willed, some are vicious, but every one of them, men and women, have some point at which their sense of chivalry, decency or sympathy may be touched. Whether you visit the prisoner or not, let him, his wife and children enter into your thoughts, your prayers and your good deeds."

GENERAL NEWS SECTION

WOMAN ENTERS RUM-RUNNER MYSTERY

The trial in Federal court of four Westport constables and two fellow-townsmen, charged with being principals and abettors in a liquor smuggling conspiracy, jumped suddenly into the realms of romance today with introduction of two baffling mysteries of the sea.

Where are the captain and crew of the derelict schooner, Dorothy Earle, carrier of the contraband alleged to have been landed by the constables, and who was the woman who paced the beach while the unloading was in operation?

The town officers on trial are Charles H. Hitt, Philip Sherman, Harry Sherman and Omer Brightman.

They are charged with having conspired to smuggle 500 cases of alcohol ashore at Westport in January last and Carlton C. Lewis, proprietor of the Ocean House at Horseneck Beach, and William R. Wood, local truckman, are charged with having aided and abetted in transportation and concealment of the illegal cargo.

The mystery woman in the case was described in testimony given by Frank J. Perry, a Westport road builder, a witness for the government.

Perry told the court he assisted at retrieving the floating cases of alcohol from the waters on the night the Dorothy Earle went aground and several times saw a woman, whom he said was not a resident of Westport, tramp incessantly up and down the shore line while the work was in progress.

More than ten government witnesses have already testified to having been at the scene of the alleged liquor landing, but not one of them has mentioned the presence of a living soul on the schooner.

5 FAMILIES FLEE WALTHAM FIRE; PETS SAVED

Fire destroyed a garage and a house, ignited two more homes and threatened several others in Waltham early today before the entire fire force of the city, summoned in a general alarm, won a two-hour battle.

Five families were driven from their homes by the blaze. Chief George Johnson of the fire department summoned his entire department when it appeared that the flames would get out control. Property damage was about $8,000, police said.

Several household pets, including a cat and a dog, were rescued.

The blaze originated in a garage owned by Arey Greenblatt on South Harvard street, used as a storage place for junk. The cause was undetermined. Before the flames were discovered they had leaped to the Greenblatt home. An alarm was sounded by a passing citizen as the Greenblatt family fled to the street.

When firemen arrived, the garage and house were doomed. Flames were already licking up the sides of two two-family houses on Browne's avenue, policemen raced into those houses and led four families to the street.

The additional firemen threw up a water curtain to prevent a further spread of the flames. The burning Browne's avenue houses were saved before the flames had time to get inside. Loss to them was reported as comparatively light. The Greenblatt house and garage, however, were complete losses.

Louis Mega, eleven, rescued his dog and cat before he thought of dressing.

Louis' six hens were rescued by some of his chums.

SEEK KELLEY IN DEATH CASE

Palmer, March 11 (A.P.)—Police are investigating the disappearance of John Kelley, whose wife is being held as an accessory to the murder of her 3½-year-old son.

Reports are current that when Kelley mysteriously disappeared two years ago, his wife was already attracted to Albert L. Doe, now held in the Springfield county jail on a charge of murdering the Kelley boy, several weeks ago.

It is not known whether Kelley is alive or dead as no word has ever been received since he dropped out of sight.

With the discovery of the alleged murder of his son, which remained a secret for 10 weeks, police are endeavoring to find out what happened to Kelley.

*"For his death no wind of blame shall breathe,
But ev'n his mother shall call it accident."*

The king suggested that Laertes, to revenge himself for the death of his sister, Ophelia, should challenge Hamlet to a fencing match, Laertes to use a poisoned rapier.

*"For drink, I'll have prepared him

To be doubly assured of Hamlet's death, the king prepared a chalice of poisoned drink to be given to the prince when he became overheated and thirsty during the fencing bout.

*"I do receive your offered love like love,
And will not wrong it."*

Hamlet begged Laertes' forgiveness for the death of the latter's father, Polonius, declaring he was out of his mind and did not know what he was doing. Laertes pretended friendliness.

*"Gertrude, do not drink——
It is the poisoned cup—it is too late!"*

The chalice with the poisoned wine intended for Hamlet was taken up by Hamlet's mother, the queen, and before the king could prevent it, she had drunk the deadly draught.

NOTED SURGEON KILLED IN SEVEN-STORY FALL

New York, March 11 (I.N.S.).—Dr. Henry W. Frauenthal, noted physician and the man who brought Dr. Adolf Lorenz, "bloodless surgeon," to this country, met death instantly today when he fell from a window of his seventh floor apartment.

30c. Worth of Powder Before Auto for Boy, Says Judge Kenyon

Des Moines, Ia., March 11 (A.P.)—Parents who send their boys to college with an automobile get scant sympathy from Judge William S. Kenyon of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

"Rather than do that," he said, addressing the American Homes National Congress here, "I would buy 30 cents worth of powder and blow him up. It would be fairer to the boy."

Judge Kenyon pleaded for a return to the old-fashioned home and old-fashioned mother.

FULLER GUEST AT ST. PATRICK DAY DINNER

Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols and prominent men from other cities will make addresses at the St. Patrick's Day dinner of the Charitable Irish Society to be held at the Hotel Somerset on the evening of March 17.

This affair, one of many observances planned by Catholic associations, will be the most pretentious in the history of the organization.

Superintendent of Schools Jeremiah E. Burke will be toastmaster. Congressman Andrew L. Somers of New York and Hon. John A. Matthews of New Jersey, a former Malden man, who was spokesman in the New Jersey Legislature for Woodrow Wilson when Wilson was governor, will be among the speakers.

The annual "green whist" in aid of St. Mary's Infant Asylum will take place at the Copley Plaza Hotel on the afternoon of the 17th.

Among the evening observances are a St. Patrick's concert by the Notre Dame Glee Club of St. Mary's Parish, Cambridge, and the St. Mary's Boys' Choir in St. Mary's Hall, Prospect and Harvard streets.

M C. O. F. celebrations will include an entertainment by St. Stephen's Court in Sarsfield Hall, Roxbury, an "Irish Night" musical program by Father Thomas F. McManus Court in St. Lawrence Hall, Chestnut Hill, and a social evening by the Perpetual Help Court at K. of C. Hall, Tremont street, Roxbury.

St. Paul's Parish, Dorchester, will conduct a concert in the parish hall, Woodward park street, in aid of the building fund, and the Church of the Assumption, East Boston, will have an entertainment in the parish hall in Sumner street.

LOCAL EXCISE TAX ON AUTOS PROPOSED

An excise tax, to be assessed locally on automobiles, especially those purchased after April 1 to avoid the present property tax, was substituted today in the House for an adverse report made by a committee.

Representative Carroll L. Meins of Boston, opposed to the tax, warned the House that the bill provided for no minimum and was, therefore, unconstitutional. He argued that any person purchasing a car after April 1, the assessment date, is not legally taxable anyway under the present law and cannot be called a taxdodger.

After upsetting the committee report on a voice vote, the bill was sent to the committee on ways and means, where it will be considered jointly with a bill to impose a gasoline tax of three cents a gallon and a reduction in the registration fee to $3.

1 DEAD, 44 SAVED, AS SHIP SINKS IN N. Y. CRASH

New York, March 11 (I.N.S.).—One life was lost today in a head-on collision of the Southern Pacific freighter El Sol and the American Diamond freight ship Sac City in New York Bay during a dense fog. The El Sol was sunk in sixty feet of water not far from Governor's Island. The Sac City was badly damaged.

Forty-four of the El Sol's crew of forty-five were rescued. John Brown, ship's carpenter, was drowned. He was seen hanging to a life-boat davit when the El Sol went down.

Sixty Years Married and Always Lived in Same House

Worcester, March 11 (A.P.).—Sixty years married and still living together in the same house where they made their vows. That is the story of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Sears, No. 108 Austin street, who will mark off 60 years on their wedding calendar Sunday.

Mrs. Sears, who is 82 years old today, was Miss Sarah Wood, and their house was a wedding gift from her father, C. O. Wood. Mrs. Sears says she has no desire to join the centenarian class.

Mr. Sears, who will be 92 years old in September, isn't sure whether he would like to live to be 100 years old.

One child was born to Mr. and Mrs. Sears, a daughter, Florence, widow of Louis E. Ware. She died two years ago.

PEABODY GETS LOAN OF COP

Deputy Police Chief Edward Callahan of Lynn was loaned to the city of Peabody today, to make a liquor and vice clean-up there, by agreement between Mayor Bauer of Lynn and Mayor Bakeman of Peabody.

T[illegible] officer was borrowed previo[illegible] by Swampscott and he gathered evidence there which resulted in the conviction of former Police Chief Quinn of that town.

For his services in Peabody, Callahan will receive $1,000 for three months' work. He will start at once.

2 ACCUSED POLICEMEN ON TRIAL BEFORE BOARD

A trial board listened today at Police headquarters to testimony in the cases of Patrolmen Henry L. Murphy of Station 20, and John F. Bray of Station 12. Murphy, arrested at Sullivan square elevated terminal on a charge of drunkenness, was later found not guilty in court. It was testified that he had suffered an injury to his head. Bray was reported for missing a morning watch. He testified that he had some difficulties at his home, went to the home of a friend, and was there taken ill. The trial board comprising Captains McConnell, McDevitt and Anderson, will later submit their recommendations to Commissioner Wilson.

BIG CUT IN PRICE OF FORD CARS REPORTED DUE

Cleveland, March 11.—Wholesale slashing on the prices of Ford cars is expected within the next few days, according to the Daily Metal Trade today. The paper says the reduction, according to the rumors, will be as much as $175 on some moleds.

COMMISSION ON HUB AIRPORT IS URGED

Creation of a commission to fix on a definite State policy on aviation and to report on the needs of the Boston airport was favored at a hearing today before the House Committee on Ways and Means by Claude L. Allen for the Boston Chamber of Commerce and William F. Williams, public works commissioner.

In the event that the resolve failed to reach the committee, however, Allen made it plain he would press for further consideration of a bill before it today, under which the airport would be leased to the government for fifteen years, and a substantial amount appropriated for filling in additional land and extending the hangars and runways. This appropriation would be in addition to any money set aside for the purpose by the city of Boston.

The Joint Committee on Rules has already voted to report the resolve for the commission, and a sub-committee is at present preparing a new draft.

HOUSE KILLS BILL TO BUY CAMBRIDGE LAND

If the strip of land at the apex formed by Gore street and the so called Northern Artery in Cambridge is to be purchased with public funds to prevent the erection of a filling station, it must be done by the city and not by the State. The House today stood by the adverse report on a bill to have the Metropolitan District Commission take over the plot which, it is claimed, can be bought for $1,700.

24 NUNS ESCAPE IN BOILER EXPLOSION

Central Falls, R. I., March 11 (A.P.).—Twenty-four nuns of the Order of Ste. Anne escaped unhurt when a hot water boiler exploded in Notre Dame Convent today, causing damage amounting to more than $12,000. The floors of a reception and music room on the first floor of the building buckled and the furniture was badly damaged.

One-half of the shaatterd boiler was blown through a wall a foot thick, then through another wall [illegible] was found 100 feet away.

HUB OUT TO GET DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

A committee of sixty to act as an official committee to "go after" the 1928 Democratic national convention in 1928 for Boston was today named by Chairman Charles H. McGlue of the Democratic State Committee.

Former Mayor Andrew J. Peters, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, has been designated as committee chairman and has accepted the honor. All former Democratic mayors of Boston are on the list, as well as distinguished leaders in business, professional and political life of the State.

WORTH MILLIONS TO HUB.

McGlue declared today the committee keenly appreciates the value of "selling Boston as a convention city" and plans to meet shortly to perfect its plans.

"It would mean tremendous advertising of Boston's now adequate facilities for holding a convention of national proportions," said McGlue. "At the same time it would mean bringing to Boston and Massachusetts millions of dollars for merchants, hotel men, amusement purveyors and railroad and steamship lines."

THE COMMITTEE.

The "committee of sixty" is made up of:

Ex-Mayors James M. Curley, John F. Fitzgerald, Nathan Matthews.

Ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss, John F. Moore, Sherman Whipple, Edward A. Filene, Edward L. Logan, Charles H. Cole, Strabo V. Claggett, Thomas J. Boynton, former Attorney-General of Massachusetts.

H. Oscar Rocheleau, Daniel F. Doherty, Westfield; Edmund Billings, Walter H. Wilcox, Woburn; Bernard J. Rothwell, Boston; Edmund D. Codman, John A. Kelliher, John J. Heffernan, Ex-Cong. Joseph H. O'Neil, James J. Phelan.

Theodore A. Glynn, Joseph B. Russell, J., Bertram G. Waters, Richard S. Teeling, Marcus A. Coolidge, Fitchburg; Edmund S. Higgins, Lynn; Ex-Cong. Michael F. Phelan, James L. McCarthy, Lynn; Harold Williams, Jr., John F. Malley, John F. Doherty.

Arthur W. Sullivan, William T. A. Fitzgerald, Joseph B. Ely, Arthur Lyman, Ex-Cong. Joseph A. Conry, Congressman James A. Gallivan, Congressman John J. Douglas, Congressman William P. Connery, Jr., George E. Curran, Frank J. Donahue, Ex-Cong. Frederick S. Deitrick.

Ex-Mayor George A. Sweeney, Attleboro; William Stopford, mayor of Beverly; Edward W. Quinn, mayor of Cambridge; John J. Whalen, mayor of Chelsea; Michael J. Shea, mayor of Chicopee; Ex-Mayor Edmond P. Talbot, Fall River; Ex-Mayor Joseph H. Delaney, Fitchburg; John F. Cronin, mayor of Holyoke, Ex-Mayor Frank A. Manning, Brockton.

Walter T. Rochefort, mayor of Lawrence; Thomas J. Corbett, mayor of Lowell; Ex-Mayor James M. Hurley, Marlboro; Charles S. Ashley, mayor of New Bedford; William M. Welch, mayor of Northampton; Andrew J. McGraw, mayor of Taunton; Thomas H. Duffy, mayor of Woburn; Ex-Mayor Peter F. Sullivan, Worcester; William J. Foley, District Attorney of Suffolk County.

WILLIAMS SAYS U. S. WISE IN CHINA POLICY

"Uncle Sam's policy of neutrality in the present Chinese civil conflict is the most sensible thing a nation could do under the circumstances." James T. Williams, Jr., former editor of the Boston Evening American and now editor of Universal Service told the YD Club last night.

"The United States is 'sitting pretty' today in China," he went on. 'We have acted wisely in not taking sides, as have the Japanese with the northern war lords and the Russians and British with the Cantonese.

NOT COMPROMISED.

"We have in no way compromised our right to say to the warring forces: 'We hope for the best for you in your conflict. You have our best wishes, but look out for all Americans in China. Remember their rights. We'll bring them down to Shanghai out of your way and near our ships, but they must be protected at any cost!'

"Ours has been a 50-50 policy in China. While evincing a scrupulous respect for the rights of China, we require that China respect no less scrupulously our rights. To back up our demands we have sent some ships there and they'll remain there until China will have set up some permanent, responsible sort of government."

AFTERMATH OF WAR.

The Chinese civil war was an aftermath of the World War, according to Mr. Williams. The hordes of Chinese coolies sent to France returned with a picture of white men fighting other white men to death, he said.

"They leavened the nation for the gospel of China's opportunity." 'Germany has been strangled,' the new leaders pointed out. 'Britain and France are crippled and the United States would remain neutral, so now is the opportunity.' And they are making the best of their opportunity," Mr. Williams emphasized.

The two most pertinent phases of new China are, according to Mr. Williams' survey made only a short time ago, the awakening of a national and racial consciousness and a resentment flaring up here and there against foreigners.

MRS. STANDISH SENTENCED TO SHERBORN

Standish, Jr., direct descendant of Myles Standish of Pilgrim fame, was offered simple probation if she would plead guilty, but she steadfastly refused to do so.

"I will plead not guilty and nothing else" she told her counsel, Attorney Albert W. Wunderly.

"The court finds you guilty," was Judge Stone's response to her defiant attitude.

STORY OF RAID.

The story of the raid was told to Judge Stone in whispers at the bench by the officers who made the raid, accompanied by young Standish and two private detectives. Counsel for Cook and Mrs. Standish participated in the long bench connfenrence.

Following this, Attorney Wunderly took Mrs. Standish into a side room to talk to her about a plea of guilty. Cook was sentenced and later Mrs. Standish's case disposed of when she had returned and made known her decision to insist on a plea of not guilty.

"This court action can never be used against Mrs. Standian in a divorce suit," said Attorney Wunderly after the court session.

It was while celebrating the refusal of the Rhode Island courts to grant her husband a divorce, following a sensational trial, that Mrs. Standish was caught in the student's apartment in Waterhouse street, Cambridge.

A diamond solitaire, flashing on Mrs. Standish's finger, was fingered nervously by the comely wife as she awaited the court's decision today. She sat directly in front of her husband, who was still flanked by his detectives, but not a word or glance passed between them.

Young Cook, who is a Brown University graduate, appeared downcast. His mother, father and brother were in court, and they listened intently as Attorney Robert J. Gallagher, in an almost inaudible voice, made a plea for leniency.

POET SEEKS TO END LIFE OVER MRS. BOYER

Three weeks ago, the poet-songster said, he and Mrs. Boyer had their first quarrel. Mrs. Boyer has been living under the name of "Miss Frances Boyer" at her apartment in Irving place, on the outskirts of the village.

SHE SOUGHT A DIVORCE.

"We made up the quarrel, but last Sunday we had another disagreement," Pfeiffer said. "It was while we were discussing arrangements for our proposed marriage that the quarrel came up.

"Mrs. Boyer had promised to marry me as soon as she could secure a divorce from her husband, the former minister. Then this misunderstanding came between us.

"I went from her apartment to the Pepper Pot, a village cabaret where I am employed as a singer. That night, I drank a great deal of gin. The more I drank, the more feeling I put into my songs. Patrons of the place said I had never before sung so well. I kept on drinking, trying to drown my grief. I was afraid I had lost Mrs. Boyer's love.

"Early Monday morning, I went directly from the Pepper Pot back to Mrs. Boyer's apartment. In her presence, I pulled out a razor blade, and cut deep into my right wrist. I wanted to end my life because I was afraid of losing what made it worthwhile.

The poet's groans roused the neighbors and they found Pfeiffer unconscious on the floor, with blood flowing from a severed artery. Mrs. Boyer was trying vainly to staunch the wound.

Pfeiffer was immediately hurried to Bellevue Hospital, where he was pronounced in a critical condition. Physicians now say he may recover.

Pfeiffer said that he and Mrs. Boyer planned to run away to Nova Scotia as soon as they could be married, and start life anew there that of the former Boston clergyman.

Today, from New York city, dispatches bring another dramatic touch of the hand of Fate, in the news that in the apartment of Boyer's second wife, Lucille Macomber Boyer, suicide was attempted by Arnold Pfeiffer, self-confessed "man of a thousand loves," and known as Greenwich poet and singer.

Pfeiffer, after a love quarrel with Mrs. Boyer, slashed his right wrist with a razor. He is at Bellevue Hospital, in a serious condition.

His act reveals the present abode of Mrs. Boyer, which has been a secret to her Boston friends. She left Boyer two years ago, the ex-minister stated today, and he has not seen her since nor learned of her whereabouts until now.

Pfeiffer, whose adventures in love are famous throughout Greenwich Village, admitted he had tried to end his life after he and Mrs. Boyer had quarreled over another man.

Asleep at the Switch, Entire Train Crew Causes Wreck

Washington, March 11 (A.P.).—The snatching of a nap by an entire train crew caused the collision on the Alton Railroad near Larrabee, Mo., on Jan. 25, which resulted in one death and injuries to 15 persons, Interstate Commerce Commission inspectors reported today.

The sleeping crew was in charge of a freight train on a siding waiting for two passenger trains to pass.

Everybody took a nap and all were awakened by the noise of a passing train.

The crew concluded both of the trains had gone by and moved out on the main line, just in time to be wrecked.

15 PERISH AS 2 HOMES BURN

Saltsburg, Pa., March 11 (I.N.S.).—Nine persons were burned to death when a fire of undetermined origin destroyed the home of Clarence Marsh in Tunneltown, near here, today.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Marsh and their five children, Mrs Harry Montgomery and one child.

Only one occupant of the house, a frame structure, escaped with his life. He was Harry Montgomery, whose wife and child perished in the flames. Montgomery leaped from a window.

Browns Mills, N. J., March 11 (A.P.).—A father, his four children, and one grandchild were burned to death today in a fire that destroyed their farmhouse at Sunset Lake, near here. His wife and daughter were badly burned and one son is missing.

The dead: William Stevenson, 55; Shinn, 12; Ernest, 11; Alfred, 9; Mildred, 6; Lillian, the grandchild, one month.

CONFESSION MAY FREE MAN JAILED IN HOLDUP

decided that the police case put in against Taylor was better than his defense, and adjudged him guilty of the store holdup.

He was sentenced to serve from four to seven years in the State prison by Judge Dorahue in Superior Court. Throughout the trial, and afterwards, his counsel, former Assistant District Attorney Daniel W. Casey, maintained Taylor's innocence, and he kept at the task of establishing it.

Taylor, in a conversation with Fr. Murphy, so impressed the veteran, though youthful chaplain, at the prison with his innocence, that the priest moved also.

Then "Baby-Face" Smith was caught in a roundup. He was convicted of several robberies, and today confessed to the Back Bay holdup.

He wore the brown coat found in the store and carried the gun identified by the victim, he said.

A new trial will be asked for tomorrow by Taylor's counsel.

WOMAN POINTS TO EX-SOLDIER AS SLUGGER

dier at Fort Banks, where Carmody once served in the army, and which is only a short distance from the Battery station, identified Carmody as the man he ordered from the barracks a short time before the attack. He said he saw Carmody near the Battery station only a few moments before the crime was committed.

RECOGNIZED BY WOMAN.

Mrs. Marion Zeigler, a resident of Winthrop, identified the prisoner as the man who called at her house Friday night and begged some food, saying he had served in the army with Mrs. Zeigler's brother.

In the examination at Winthrop the police found a wound on the prisoner's little finger of his left hand. Mrs. Mourad, in the struggle with her assailant, bit his hand and the police had a doctor examine the wound today.

In connection with Carmody's arrest, Winthrop police are also investigating the mysterious disappearance of pretty Muriel Baxter, a maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Covey of Highland avenue, Winthrop.

GIRL STRANGELY MISSING.

The girl, who had gone on a visit to her home in Nova Scotia, returned to Boston and telephoned her mistress Saturday that she was in Boston and was immediately returning to work. Nothing has been seen of the girl since, however.

The significance is in the fact that the girl disappeared the same day Mrs. Mourad was attacked and the same day Carmody has been definitely placed in Winthrop.

Police investigators find Carmody is also known as Mathew F. Hall and Michael F. Connolly. As a youth he served time in the old Parental School in West Roxbury. Later he served time in Concord Reformatory and the East Cambridge jail. After joining the army he was so undisciplined a soldier that he was confined in Fort Leavenworth for a time and was dishonorably discharged.

Carmody was arrested by Sergeant John F. Dunleavy of the South Boston police. The fugitive walked into a Dover street restaurant and in an air of bravado announced he was the man sought for the Winthrop attack. "The cops are looking for me, and I did it," he boastfully declared. A patron of the restaurant notified the police and Carmody was taken without a struggle.

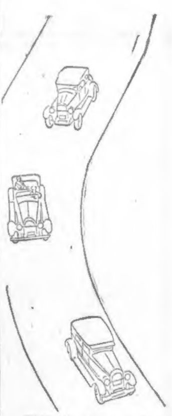
STATE CONSTABULARY PLANS TRAFFIC SQUAD

Plans for creating a distinct traffic squad of sixty State troopers were outlined today by Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote, in connection with a bill to increase the present strength of the constabulary from 140 to 300 members. Foote was speaking before the House committee on ways and means.

KEEP GOING

There's a Jenney Station just ahead. You'll know it by this sign — the same to gasoline as sterling is to silver

The first drive-in station in Greater Boston was a Jenney Station. It was designed for one purpose—to give Boston motorists the utmost in fuel and service. Now, as then, the name "Jenney" stands for gasoline and oils of superior quality — always dependable—always economical and satisfactory.



Winter Gasoline now at all stations. Use it—for a steady flow of power that takes you where you want to go—over every hill and every road condition—at the least cost of fuel, oil and upkeep.

Be Humble and Keep Your Home Happy

"Stay, stay at home, my heart, and rest;
Home-keeping hearts are happiest;
For those that wander they know not where
Are full of trouble and full of care;
To stay at home is best."

PROBABLY all newlyweds sense the truth of these lines of Longfellow's, and hope to make their own history one of "home-keeping hearts."

Then come the trials and tribulations of the early years of married life and before either realizes exactly what has happened there comes an argument, to be followed by a misunderstanding.

Why?

JUST AS EASY TO SAY.

Simply because one or the other, or better both, will not humble themselves.

Isn't it just as easy to say, at the very beginning, "You're right; I'm wrong and I'm sorry."

If both are waiting and willing to admit that they may be wrong, a deep and wonderful sense of understanding and real affection will grow.

Surely this ought to be easy, with those we love the best, yet how often we hear, "Well, I won't give in; he'll have to come to me, first."

"I'M SORRY" WILL ALWAYS HELP.

Think over the misunderstandings of your life and see how quickly those little words, "I'm sorry," would have helped, if only someone could have brought himself to say them at the beginning.

I have been happily married for years and I believe our happy home is the result of not having been afraid to humble ourselves.

When young friends say to me, "I'd like to be married, if I could be as happy as you are," my advice is:

"Be humble; be quick to acknowledge wrong."

"TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE"

That's what people said when BOYLE BROS., 27 years ago, launched their original, startling but now world famous credit system — NO MONEY DOWN. "It can't be done!" said some. "There's a catch in it somewhere!" said others. But the people came and bought the Finest of Style Quality Clothing without so much as a small deposit—paying for it later in little easy payments as low as $1.00 a week. And now instead of—"It can't be done," IT IS being done by BOYLE BROS. Instead of "Too Good to be True," people are now saying—
"TOO GOOD TO BE MISSED!"

HAPPY HOME LETTERS END

On the last day but one of The Boston Evening American's "What Makes Home Happy? What Makes Home Unhappy?" discussion, the writer whose letter is chosen for publication succeeds in sounding another new note.

To be happy in your married life, says Mrs. Carl T. Warton of Swampscott, be humble.

The person who succeeds in avoiding matrimonial pitfalls, in the opinion of this writer, is the one who learned to say, "I'm sorry," and says it first.

The final letter in this unique discussion will be printed tomorrow. The Home Editor will have scores of letters to make his selection from and he will do his his best to find something original.

Contributions should reach this office before 10 o'clock tonight. Letters should contain not more than 300 words, should be written on one side of the paper only and should be addressed to Home Editor, Boston Evening American, P. O. Box 110, Boston, Mass.

PRINCETON ENDORSES COLUMBIA ON WAR DEBTS

Princeton, N. J., March 11 (A.P.). —Headed by President John Grier Hibben, 116 members of the faculty of Princeton University have endorsed the statement issued by the faculty of political science at Columbia, calling for reconsideration of the settlement of the Allied war debts.

50,000 MINERS IN SHUTDOWN

Cleveland, March 11 (A.P.).—Fifty thousand union coal miners in Ohio faced a general shutdown of all union mines in the State today.

Following decision of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association that the present wage scale made it impossible for them to compete with mines in non-union fields and an announcement from Indianapolis, headquarters of the United Mine Workers, that no wage agreement seemed possible, operators prepared to suspend mining in their fields.

About 400 companies are included in the association.

The first step toward the shutdown occurred in Belmont county when the Rail and River Company placed a note in miners' pay envelopes saying that "as no contract has been agreed upon the mines of Eastern Ohio will cease to operate with the close of the present month

RESCUE WOMAN, 97, FROM EAST BOSTON FIRE

A bed-ridden woman, 97 years old, and three children were saved from death in the flames which swept through the house at No. 12 Falcon street, East Boston, early today by the bravery of James Amberman, a lodger.

Hardly had Sarah Crosby, owner of the house, shouted the alarm of fire than Amberman thought of the aged woman. He ran to her room on the second floor, and found Miss Anne Clark, the nonogenarian, vainly trying to rise from her bed.

Amberman carried her to safety down the stairway through smoke and flame. She was taken to a neighbor's house, where she seemed none the worse for her nearness to death.

While Amberman was carrying the Clark woman down the stairway, Miss Crosby was saving three adopted children, John, Arthur and William Crosby.

She was badly burned, her hair catching at one time. Other lodgers went to her assistance. Her burns about the face and head were treated by a physician.

'Holy Mackerel!' Cries 'Cap'n Joe,' But He Pulls in a Seal

Wickford, R. I., March 11 (I.N.S.) "Cap'n Joe" Smith stood in his dory off "Point Jud" hauling his fish traps.

"Holy mackerel!" exclaimed the fisherman, scoring a bull's eye with tobacco juice on the ridge of an approaching wave and at the same time finding one trap unusually heavy.

The trap was finally above water. It contained a handsome silver gray seal, 125 pounds. It had strayed from northern waters. It's pelt was valuable.

$10,000 PUT UP FOR BIG CAPE COD SWIM

Hyannis, March 11.—Plans for a Cape Cod swimming contest, with $25,000 as the prize for the swimmer who first crosses the twenty-six miles of water between Craigville Beach and Nantucket, today reached the point where the swim seems assured

Of the $25,000 prize money more than $7,000 has already been pledged in this town alone, while the total amount pledged so far will reach $10,000.

Hotel men, Chamber of Commerce and business firms located or interested in boosting Cape Cod are behind the prject which is expected to arouse as much interest throughout the country as the now famous Catalina Island swim on the Pacific Coast.

The distance between Craigville Beach and Cliff Beach, Nantucket, is 26 miles. Fishermen who have spent their lives on the wind-swept waters declare that it is impossible for a human being to swim the distance unaided. The tides are treacherous and the cross currents and tide rips are among the worst along the Atlantic Coast.

Eva Morrison of Boston is probably the first person to send in an actual entry for the swim. Of the prize money already subscribed, Charles Dooley of the Hotel Mayflower has subscribed $1,000 while F. W. Norris of the F. W. Norris Company of Boston has also subscribed $1,000.

The date of the swim and other details will not be announced until the last of the $25,000 prize money has been subscribed.

LONE POLICEMAN NABS 11 IN NECKTIE STRIKE

Eleven striking necktie and cap workers were arrested by a lone policeman on Kingston street, today, on a charge of obstructing the sidewalk.

GREAT BATTLE DEVELOPS IN CHINA

Peking, March 11 (A.P.)—Six hundred wounded soldiers have arrived at Peking, indicating that the fighting in Honan is developing on a large scale.

Shanghai, March 11 (I.N.S.).—The long expected battle for Sunkiang and in the Taiping Chen region of Anhwei now appears to be in full swing.

Sentinels spotted 30 boatloads of nationalist troops, dressed as civilians, proceeding to the city. Shantungese opened a heavy fire and the nationalists retired.

Heavy fighting continues in the Chusan Yishing sector, where the nationalists are receiving reinforcements, including many Russian detachments.

U. S. and Russia Protest Outrages by Chinese

Shanghai, March 11 (A.P.).—The American Consul-General at Hankow was drawing up a protest today for presentation to the Cantonese authorities against excesses in the city of Wuhu after it was occupied by Cantonese soldiers several days ago.

The second battalion of the British Coldstream Guards was landed at Shangnai today.

N. E. CLOTHIERS' BANQUET TO BE HELD AT STATLER

The beautiful ballroom of the new Hotel Statler will be the scene of the annual banquet, entertainment and dance of those connected with the men's and boys' wear industry, Tuesday evening.

The Men's Apparel Club and the Boston Men's Wear Exchange are co-operating in supplying entertainers for the occasion which will form a part of the 11th annual convention of the New England Retail Clothiers and Furnishers' Association, meeting Monday and Tuesday, March 14 and 15, at the hotel.

CHARGE FIREMAN BEING OUSTED IN SOMERVILLE

Charging that Captain Edwin F. Trefren of Engine 6 of the Somerville fire department, for forty-five years a member of that department, was being forced out, Alderman Robert C. Harris, on a charter objection held up an order in the Somerville Board of Aldermen to place Captain Trefren on a pension of half pay, amounting to $1,375 a year. Captain Trefren will be seventy years of age on March 20, and if the order was adopted he would be retired on March 28.

FORD EXTENDS VISITING HOURS

Bec se of the huge throngs that are crowding the new Somerville plant of the Ford Motor Company where "open house" is held dail, from on   in the afternoon until ten o'clock in the even ng, the program of visiting has been extended throughout tomorrow.

This "open house" has not only attracted a number of industrial heads who are anxious to see its reputed highly eff   has also been a source of interest to different organizations, many of whom visit it in a body.

Six thousand members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce were shown through the plant, and the Associated Industries of Massachusetts sent a delegation of about 2,000. Rotary, Kiwanis, Boards of Trades, civic improvement associations, fraternities, women's clubs and other organizations have all been represented among the visitors.

'HEALTH HINTS' FOR YOUR AUTO

Air circulators, air cleaners and oil filters for the automobile motor are three "health hints" given by exhibitors for the AC Spark Plug Company of Flint, Michigan.

"By taking the moisture out of the crankcase," it is said, "the Air Circulator carries still further the good work of the Air Cleaner and the Oil Filter. It protects the lubricating quality of the oil."

"Here then are three important contributions to motor design. Any one will prove effective, all three in combination give marvelous results. These results are improved performance, lowered oil consumption, greater convenience and decided saving in upkeep cost."

"You will find these improvements being rapidly adopted by most of the leading makes of cars. They help to make present day automobiles the biggest dollar-for-dollar value the industry has ever known."

MARCUS LOEW DINNER HOST IN FLORIDA

Palm Beach, Fla., March 11—Marcus Loew gave one of the most delightful d   of the season in the Isabelle room of the Hotel Alba, in honor of Joseph Schenck, motion picture producer.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Katz, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin, Ray Goetz, Edwin Loeb, Arthur Stebbins, Mrs. Arthur Hammerstein, John Emerson, Miss Anita Loos and Mrs. Jack Goldberg.

CADILLAC HAS NEW PHAETON

Cadillac's special custom-built sport phaeton is one of the most impressive exhibits at the Copley-Plaza Salon of the auto show, and has attracted considerable attention because of its smartness and beauty.

This car, while it has been wholly designed in America, has a decided Continental appearance, and the Cadillac Company has received a number of requests to produce replicas for European and South American exhibitions.

The lines are unusually smart, and the color scheme of black and silver leaf make the machine distinctive. The hood is of polished metal, while the top is of the victoria style, and the upholstery is light pigskin.

NASH MODELS WIN FAVOR

The four models of the Nash light six series have become so popular since their introduction last May that extensions to the plant in Racine, Wisconsin have been necessary, according to C. P. Rockwell, New England distributor.

"This series includes the touring car, coupe, five-passenger sedan, and five - passenger de luxe sedan, a powered with the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft motor," he continued. "Of these the de luxe sedan is the latest and newest of the four."

"This sedan has lustrous-finished deep blue fenders, harmonizing with the coloring of the upper structure of the body and affording a contrast to the lighter blue of the lower body and the brilliant tone of the running gear."

"Upholstery is genuine mohair throughout, while walnut is used in the construction of the steering wheel, instrument board and window ledges."

"Four-wheel brakes are standard on all four of this series models, as well as double-beam headlights. They also have oil purifier, air cleaner, gas gauge, full force feed lubrication inside and outer door locks and five disc wheels."

Betty Alden's Comment on Boston Society Happenings

Many Members of Smart Set on Way to European Spring Playgrounds

BOSTONIANS BY THE BOATLOAD ARE STAGING THEIR annual Spring exodus. It's a sure sign that the "gentle" season is almost with us, this annual migration of the wealthy and leisured set to the playgrounds of the Old World. The steamship France sails out of New York tomorrow with a list that fairly groans with a weight of names freighted with social importance. And from Boston there goes a set smartest of the smart. That inveterate traveler who crosses the ocean half a dozen times each year, Mrs. Rockhill Brevoort Potts, is outbound again, going over for just a short stay.

PRETTY MRS. ROBERT HERRICK, JR., goes over to France on the France. Mrs. John Mitchell also makes the crossing, with Paris her destination. It's quite safe to say that both young matrons will find much to their liking in certain establishments that give the Rue de la Paix its world-wide place in feminine esteem. Mrs. Mitchell, known to her smart world intimates here as the former Elizabeth Caswell, makes but the shortest of European stays, however, and returns in a few weeks to this side to rejoin Mr. Mitchell at their Cuban plantation.

MRS. JOHN CASWELL (MOTHER OF MRS. MITCHELL) sails also, and I believe will be in England for a while. Mrs. James R. Hooper, Jr., and Miss Margot Amory are Bostonians of the Upper Tendom who are doing a Spring jaunt across the seas. Vinton Chapin, Dudley L. Pickman, Jr., Warren Motley and Edward C. Fitz, four smart young Bostonians, are in the bachelor contingent on the France. Mr. J. Harleston Parker goes to join Mrs. Parker, who, with their daughter, Miss Edith Parker, has been abroad for several months.

MRS. ARTHUR T. CABOT OF "CHERRY HILL," in Ponkapoag, is a passenger outbound. So also are Dr. Francis Henry Davenport and David I. Livingston. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Williams, Jr., Miss Joan Williams, Montgomery H Colladay and Norman Williams are a family group of travelers bound for a European holiday. The John Austin Amorys of Needham are away, with the pleasantest of itineraries mapped out to include the late March steeplechase that attracts the sporting world from the far corners of the earth.

TO PARIS FIRST GO THE AMORYS, where Mrs. Amory will replenish a wardrobe that is always supremely smart. Then they cross the Channel for London, and eventually bring up at the run of the Grand National Steeplechase, which is the magnet for so many scores of smart Americans. The most famous steeplechase in the entire world of sport is a surefire attraction, and this year will find many Bostonians gathered at the historic course. I've heard of several delightful plans for gay entertaining before and after the race, with Boston sportsmen the hosts.

LADY LEONORA SPEYER'S BOSTON STAY was of briefest duration, lasting scarcely more than two rounds of the clock between her arrival and departure. So for her scores of friends there was time for little more than a hail and farewell. Naturally they crowded about her, after the Literary Luncheon at Repertory Hall had taken its pleasant way and informality reigned. Mrs. Wirt Dexter was in the group, also Mrs. Philip Hale and Mrs. Edward Burlingame Hill.

VERY DECORATIVE WAS SHE AT THE "HIGH TABLE" where sat the honored guest. Besides having a gifted pen, Lady Leonora possesses also a subtle flair for daring color combination. It's the daring of the chic Parisienne and yesterday was expressed in frock of deep rose and two-toned orchid chapeau, becoming in the extreme. Repertory Hall was filled to the very doors for this luncheon, staged so successfully to do special honor to Miss Harriet Monroe of Chicago. Such an outpouring of people must have delighted Miss Monroe, modest though she be, and retiring as the proverbial violet.

PRETTY YOUNG GIRLS CAME OUT IN NUMBERS to aid the luncheon's smooth progression. Miss Betty Newell, Miss Sylvia Shippen, Miss Elinor Hesseltine, Miss Mary Mathews, Miss Nancy Morison, Miss Zoe Shippen, Miss Nancy Wentworth, Miss Louise Thayer, Miss Virginia Hayden, Miss Sallie Lee Brown and Miss Helen McGarry were in the bevy of assistants to whom, in no small measure, is due the affair's success.

TO INSTAL RECTOR OF CHRIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Rev. Ernest J. Dennen, archdeacon of Boston, will be instituted as rector of Christ Church (the old North Church), Sunday, at a service beginning at 10:45 o'clock. Bishop Babcock will officiate at the office of institution and will preach the sermon. After the service Mr. Dennen will welcome the members of the congregation informally.

BIT OF FLORIDA HAS COME TO VERMONT

St. Albans, Vt., March 11 (A.P.).—Spring has come to Northern Vermont. City Manager C. S. Summer today ordered the street sprinklers to make their regular tour of the streets to lay the dust. There has been no snow on the streets for more than two weeks.

Oldest residents cannot recall when dust was flying here so early as March 11.

CHILD DANCERS WILL APPEAR IN RECITAL

Miss June Turville, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S Turville, Jr., of Lynnfield, proclaimed by critics as a "perfect child," will be one of the principal juvenile dancers to participate in the recital by the pupils of the State Conservatory of Dancing at the Fine Arts Theatre tomorrow night.

June Turville

The recital will be presented as a musical and dance offering in three acts, interspersed with an attractive list of solo many of the pupils of the State Conservatory.

The entire production was conceived and staged by Harold De Wolfe, formerly of the ballet of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

6,200 PAY $11 EACH FOR ROXY THEATRE SEATS

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—It will cost $11 to buy one of 6,200 seats for the opening of Roxy's new $10,000,000 movie palace tonight. Once a corporal of the Marines himself, he has hired a couple of ex-sergeants to boss his ushers.

YOUNG MEN'S ANNUAL RETREAT BEGINS APRIL 3

The annual retreat of the Young Men's Catholic Association, a notable event in Boston's lenten observance, will begin on Sunday evening, April 3 and end on Palm Sunday, April 10, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, East Concord street, South End. This retreat originated in 1876 and has been held yearly ever since.

Rev. Charles L. O'Brien, S. J., of Boston College, will conduct the services in the upper church and Rev. James L. McGovern, S. J., dean of Boston College High School, will conduct those in the lower church.

Simmons Dean to Speak

Dean Jane Louise Mesick of Simmons College will speak at the Church of the Messiah, March 20, at 8 P. M., on "The Work and Ideals of Simmons College."

MINER-INVENTOR WEDS ON WINNING 20 MILLIONS

San Francisco, March 11 (A.P.).—George Campbell Carson, miner, inventor and potential multi-millionaire by virtue of a suit recently decided in his favor by the United States Supreme Court, ceased today to be a "holdout" from the matrimonial league. Carson, who is 57, married Mrs. Hersee M. Gross, 48, of Los Angeles, yesterday.

Not so long ago, when the Supreme Court held that reverberatory furnaces used by the American Smelting and Refining Company and other metal producers contained features which Carson had invented and patented without having paid him any royalties, he was placed in a position favorable to collecting some $20,000,000 for patent infringement.

BILLY SUNDAY BLOWS UP NEW LEWIS BOOK

Jacksonville, Fla., March 11 (I. N. S.)—Billy Sunday let loose one of his [illegible] tirades today [illegible] aimed at Sinclair Lewis' new book, "Elmer Gantry," depicting the career of a [illegible] traveling [illegible] and [illegible] the pulpit with [illegible] as [illegible].

While his blast was largely at the [illegible]

"That there is any market at all for such [illegible] 'Elmer Gantry' [illegible] is deplorable [illegible] in the country today," the evangelist exclaimed in a statement telegraphed from Tampa to International News Service today.

"BIRD" WHO DEFIED GOD.

"If I am not mistaken this same Sinclair Lewis is the bird who stood in a pulpit in Kansas City some time ago, ridiculed Christianity and defied God to strike him dead. Had I been the Lord I would have soused him so hard there would have been nothing left for the devil to levy on."

"Only 'burning belief' can awaken belief in others, but owing to the teachings of the so-called 'new theologians' an [illegible] number of pastors, priests and [illegible] have [illegible] ceased to believe themselves," Sunday said.

HERETICS AND LIARS.

"And the result is," he continued, "that their timid and insecure converts are [illegible] only heretics and liars.

"The time is at hand when nothing but a revival of old-fashioned religion will save America from disintegration and dissolution, and the neurotic, anti-God, anti-virtue and anti-everything novels which many writers are foisting on the public today is only a part of the rot that must be gathered up and dumped into hell if the institutions we love and on which the nation was founded are to be perpetuated."

NEW YORK STATE considers stage censorship to discourage stage indecency.

Clergymen appearing before the Legislature did not agree. A spokesman for Bishop Manning, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, opposed censorship.

Monsignor Lavelle said to the legislators, "I bring a message from Cardinal Hayes. He is heart and soul for cleaning up the stage and for this bill."

THE ODDS are about 100 to 1 that the bill will be passed and stage censorship established.

Decent managers and actors will have their less respectable colleagues to thank for the censorship.

GIRL DRUG BUYER JAILED

Brilliant Scene at Statler

CHASED PURSE GRABBER UNTIL SHE CAUGHT HIM

Mrs. Hazel Hebb of Allston, whose pocketbook was snatched by a man in Massachusetts subway station, got a "lift" from a motorist and toured until she found him Leon Taibb the alleged thief, was held for observation.

N. E. LEADS ALL IN HIGH-GRADE COTTONS

Massachusetts cotton mills led all States in output value for 1925, census figures published by the Commerce Department in Washington today revealed.

The figures show also that Massachusetts employed 21 per cent. of all persons working in American cotton mills in 1925.

Commenting on the figures which indicate that a large percentage of the industry has concentrated in the South, Ward Thoron, treasurer of the Merrimac Manufacturing Co. and president of the Arkwright Club, declared the South is successful only in the coarse textiles.

WHERE N. E. LEADS

New England, he asserted, holds the lead in the better grades that the American market seeks.

This is [illegible] with the Commerce Department statement that while Southern mills in the last two months have been operating at 13 per cent. capacity [illegible] shifts, the [illegible] United States market for the coarse product.

Official census figures for 1925 on cotton goods production are:

Section	Number Mills.	Value of Product.
Cotton growing States	809	$979,000,000
N. E. States..	312	607,900,000
Other States .	225	117,336,000
North Carolina (individual) ..	364	316,069,090
Mass. (indiv'l).	178	345,864,000

In 1923 the South had 768 mills as compared to 357 for New England.

All hope of placing the southern product rests in the foreign markets, which absorb qualities that American buyers do not desire, the report stated.

IMPROVED DEMAND.

"There has undoubtedly been a great improvement in demand for cotton textiles since the first of the year," said Mr. Thoron, "and this has been particularly marked in the lines manufactured by the southern mills.

"Many orders have been placed in volume, and recent reports confirm the fact that these have been sufficient to encourage a number of southern mills to operate double shifts.

"We understand eastern mills have also found the demand for their products improving."

Statler Hotel

Open to Public

With much ceremony the new Hotel Statler was opened to the Boston public last evening.

Many notables from all over New England attended and were enthused over the many novel features introduced by the Hub's latest hotel.

Mrs. M. Mella of 40 Division street, Malden, was greatly enthused recently over the replies she received from a Classified Ad in the American and Advertiser. An advertisement scheduled to appear for seven days brought satisfactory returns in one day. For quick action telephone your ad to Liberty 4000. Advt.

WIFE IN BIGAMY CASE DEMANDS ANNULMENT

As an aftermath of a bigamy charge lodged against Maurice Willson in Middlesex Court, last Summer, by his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Irene Willson of Boston, she appealed today in Suffolk Probate Court for an annulment of the marriage.

Willson, who is twenty-eight, resides in Beach street, Wollaston, and according to his wife there is a wife No. 1 still living in England.

Mrs. Willson appealed to Judge [illegible] today to void her marriage and to declare legitimate the two children of the couple, Edwin Maurice Wilson, aged three, and Leonora June Willson, aged twenty-one months.

The Willsons were married in Providence, Nov. 6, 1923, after a courtship lasting over a period of two years. The couple lived in Providence, Springfield, Albany and finally removed to Cambridge, where last August, Mrs. Willson had her husband arrested on the bigamy charge. The same day Willson was arrested, the wife appeared before the court and sought to have the charge withdrawn, claiming it was a mistake and that wife No. 1, in England, was suing for a divorce after which she and Willson would be re-wed.

Today Mrs. Willson told the court her husband was still legally married to the woman in England. She said at the time of her marriage she knew her husband had been married before, but believed he had been divorced.

At the time of his appearance before the court in Cambridge, Willson was ordered to pay $12 a week for the support of his two children.

31 INDICTED IN R. I. RUM PLOT

Providence, R. I., March 11.—What is believed to be the greatest offensive against illicit liquor interests in the history of Rhode Island opened today when a Federal Grand Jury returned 21 secret indictments and 13 open indictments to Judge Morris in United States Court.

For weeks the grand jury has been probing rum running and bootleg operations along the coast and throughout the State. It is said that the investigation covered a period of three years, the grand jury delving into all branches of the bootlegging industry. It is also said that men long regarded as the "brains" of the Rhode Island bootleg ring came in for investigation.

HARVARD "RIOT" CASES PUT OFF TILL MARCH 21

Ten students and one civilian, convicted of disturbing the peace in the "Battle of Harvard Square," were arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court today. All pleaded not guilty. Judge Broadhurst continued the cases until the week of March 21, holding the eleven in the same bail as that of district court.

Those arraigned are Edward J. Cunningham, Arthur E. ("Art") French, Jr., Horace W. Fuller, William L. Grossman, John H. McCollom, John J. Shaw, Edward H. Steiner, Russell Thayer, Daniel Westheimer and John H. Whiting, Jr., students, and Arthur Clement, tobacconist.

THOUSANDS THRONG HOTEL

A veritable wonderland in the guise of a hotel—the long-heralded Statler—was still a mecca for throngs today following the formal opening, when 3,000 were initiated into its splendors.

With the new hostelry in Park Square settling down to normal, Bostonians strolled through its spaciousness, as they will for days to come to view its [illegible].

The Statler [illegible] today and [illegible] Mayor [illegible] his address to the [illegible] crowd, said: "[illegible] both the Statler Hotel and [illegible] of Boston and by [illegible] will make Boston the greatest city under the sun."

Dancing until 1 a. m. guests of the Statler "housewarming" celebrated the hotel's bow to the public of the Hub and New England in gorgeous style. The ball was the crowning affair of the night.

THE GAYEST PARTY.

Hundreds, having dined and inspected the structure, having heard Governor Fuller and E. M. Statler pronounce eloquent prophecies on the future, swirled in the gayest party in many moons.

It was more Mr. Statler's night than anyone else's in spite of the merry time the throng was having, and he declared that it was one of the memorable events of his long career when he personally showed Governor Fuller through the hotel.

Like a boy showing a toy to a playmate and explaining its various parts, he conducted the Governor, intent with interest, through the lobbies, the mezzanine, the beautiful dining halls, the ballroom, the library and every point of interest there was to be seen.

His twin son and daughter, Elva and Ellsworth, Jr., were there to enjoy the occasion with him, as was also an older boy, Milton. The twins are fourteen years old and the boy attends Fessenden School in Newton, while Miss Elva goes to Holmquist School at New Hope, Pa. A third son is in Paris.

SHE THOUGHT IT NICE.

"A very nice housewarming, daddy," said Miss Elva, during the evening.

Every room in the hotel was occupied and among the features that guests found in their rooms were radio sets. Pull out the drawer of the telephone table and there was a switch, to the left for one Boston station, to the right for another, and ear phones to lie in bed and listen by.

Men guests were given handsome and useful leather-backed clothes brushes as mementoes, but the women were even more pleased with their souvenirs, beautiful little oxidized silver cigarette boxes, which non-smokers could use for holding trinkets in their boudoirs.

Eating 1,000 pounds of turtles in soup, 1,500 pounds of sole, 400 saddles of lamb, 200 pounds of mushrooms, 200 pounds of butter, 400 quarts of ice cream, 500 dinner rolls, 100 gallons of coffee, and much other food, including chicken, guests enjoyed themselves to the limit in the main dining room, the Georgian room and other dining halls.

Flowers adorned the lobby and other halls and these, setting off the rich coloring of the walls and the beautiful tapestries, entranced the multitude.

GREETED WITH CHEERS.

Cheers greeted Mine Host Statler and Governor Fuller as, with Mayor Nichols, they stood before the crowd in the ballroom and addressed them from the stage facing the Governor's box with its American and State flags.

"Do you know of any place in America, Mr. Statler," asked Governor Fuller, "where you could have been given tonight a more cordial welcome than this? I want to assure you that this feeling of cordiality extends throughout the Commonwealth and that in very truth I am repeating the wishes of our citizens when I extend to you the greetings of Massachusetts and the best wishes of our citizenship.

"And so, Mr. Statler, we welcome you to Boston—
The home of the bean and the cod,
Where our forefathers fought for freedom
And the right to worship their God."

'L' DENIES BIG LAY-OFF DUE

A rumor that many Boston Elevated Railway employes would be laid off when the Cambridge-Boston rapid transit service is extended to Dorchester was "spiked" today by General Manager Edward W. Dana.

Dana told the City Council committee on employment that the recent laying off of twelve men at the Fields Corner carbarn did not [illegible] more discharges in the future.

"There will be sixty-five additional trains to be manned when the rapid transit extension is completed and men will be taken from the surface lines to man these trains," he said.

"The union decides who shall go up to these jobs, under a seniority agreement between the carmen and the company. The twelve recently discharged were the men most recently hired, according to the same agreement. This was merely due to an ordinary fluctuation in the need of the company for motormen and conductors."

HUB ELECTION BILL KILLED

The Boston City Council will continue its jurisdiction over the closing of the polls on election day.

A bill taking this power out of the council's hands and lodging it with the election commissioners was today refused a third reading in the House on a rising vote, 86 to 73.

By a peculiar coincidence, the ill treatment that [illegible] of East Boston received [illegible] saved him from standing trial [illegible] for alleged violation of [illegible] but it put the alleged holdup men in court in his stead.

As Shulman could neither appear in East Boston district court in his own case nor against the alleged robbers, both cases were continued until March 18.

The defendants in the robbery case, who are alleged to have taken $75 from Shulman in his store in Chelsea street, are Louis Soire, a 17-year-old Coast Guard, Charles Pasquale, 17, and Fred Alfri, 17. Soiri is charged with robbery and the others with being accessories. Soiri is held in $10,000 bail, while the other two youths are held in $5,000 each.

Adventures of a Girl From New England in the Movie Colony

READ THIS FIRST

BOBBIE RANSOM, a demure little Dedham school teacher of 22, is "movie struck."

The drawback to her ambition is lack of money. Her widowed father will not lend her a penny. Neither will her maiden AUNT GERTRUDE nor ANDREW JERROLD, who's in love with her and wants her to stay at home and marry him.

She finally borrows five hundred dollars from Mrs. PARKINS, a well-to-do widow who is her father's prospective second wife, and goes to Hollywood with a full purse and a high heart. There Bobbie sees an assistant director named ANGUS MACCLOUD, who notices her particularly and gets her a place. At the studio, Bobbie falls down a flight of steps, almost into the arms of ROY SCHULTZ, a famous director. Schultz gives her a tiny part as a ballet dancer, much to the disgust of MONICA MONT, another "extra."

One afternoon MacCloud takes Bobbie for a drive up into the Hollywood hills and tries to make love to her. When she rebuffs him, he sullenly takes her to a restaurant where she is to meeet Monica for supper. Monica shows up with the news that she's just been turned out of her boarding house for not paying her rent. While the girls are waiting for a table, MacCloud comes in with a girl.

Monica Mont finally comes to live at Mrs. Mangan's house. Bobbie is not pleased over this, for Monica is a gold-digger and never pays her bills. One night Monica has a phone call from MacCloud, who wants her to persuade Bobbie to go on a party to the gambling town of Tia Juana the next day. Bobbie eagerly says she'll go.

Tardy Juror Explains He Overslept After Statler Opening

A timely, original and successful excuse was offered in Suffolk Superior Court today when a juror in an assault and battery case told Judge Cox he was late because he had attended the Hotel Statler opening and overslept.

The jurors had been excused last night and were to deliberate on the case when court opened today. When court opened the juror was absent.

After waiting some time Judge Cox sent the eleven remaining jurors to their room to make a decision. The tardy juror appeared just as they left the court room.

[illegible] and his assistant, [illegible] and Judge [illegible] imposed a sentence of one year in jail.

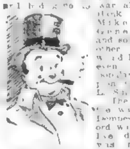
Dempsey Has Strong Hold on the Fans

By Jack Conway

"JACK DEMPSEY'S statement from the coast that he is going to fight again has got the boys wagging their tongues," chirped Mr Boston as he borrowed one of those O. P. (Other People's) cigarettes today.

"Tunney, Sharkey, Maloney, [illegible] and a little other heavyweights all [illegible] [illegible] but none of them has as great a hold on the public as Dempsey.

If Dempsey had [illegible] up a [illegible] and had gone to war along with [illegible] Mike O'Dowd, Gene Tunney and some of the other boys, he would have been even a more popular champion than John L. Sullivan.



Mr. Boston

The [illegible] on Dempsey's record was hard to live down. It was not until Tunney took Dempsey's title away from him that the public warmed up to Jack. They then put all the blame for Dempsey's errors on Jack Kearns and took the dethroned champion right into their hearts.

"I guess the gang kind of admired the way Dempsey stood up in the ring and took his socking from Tunney without a whimper. After the bout, when his face was badly marked from Gene's punches and he could barely see, Jack didn't offer a single alibi for his defeat.

"DEMPSEY says he is going to come back and fight any opponent named by Rickard. This probably means Jack will be tossed in with the victor of the Sharkey-Maloney mill. I think Tex will save Paulino for next year. If the Spaniard disposes of Tom Heeney, he will put him against either Johnny Risko or Jack Delaney. Then if his record is still clean, he will be placed in cold storage for the 1928 business. There is no sense in having all of the select cauliflower boys knocked off the same year.

"Dempsey will have to get down to business pretty soon if he is to make any kind of a showing against the young fellows who are now blazing the trail to fame in the heavyweight division.

"MY advice to Dempsey would be to get off by himself and his trainers in the mountains as soon as possible. Plenty of hard work in the open air will put the zip back in Jack's socks and restore some of his lost vitality.

"I believe that inactivity in the ring was the real cause of Dempsey's downfall. He had been out of the fistic racket for three years. He was transformed from a heavyweight lion into a social leader. And the social life never did mix with the fighting game.

"I am glad, though, that Dempsey has decided to take part in one or two preliminary bouts before asking a shot at Tunney. If a Dempsey-Tunney show was put in without any warm-up, the public would have reason to charge that the affair at the Cesspool Centennial was one of THOSE THINGS.

"BILL MULDOON, the veteran member of the New York Boxing Commission, had the real low down on both Dempsey and Wills. He picked Tunney to wallop Jack and Sharkey to tame the Brown Panther.

"Tunney and Sharkey later proved Muldoon knew what he was talking about. The old boy too was as important to the success of these two warriors as was their right punches. But I guess it is the same in every racket. There are plenty of birds whom I know who are cashing in on the ballyhoo rather than on 18 karat ability."

McNamara Team Is Sitting Pretty

New York, March 11 (I N S.)—Two laps to the good, the team of McNamara and Georgetti appeared to have the six-day bike race at their mercy early today. Beckman and Petri, in second place, were two laps ahead of Walthour and Spencer, the next team. Only twelve teams now remain in the race.

Famous Yale Nine Captain Is Dead

New York, March 11 (A.P.).—Louis S. Middlebrook, who captained one of Yale's great baseball teams, died at his home here yesterday. He was graduated from Yale in 1915. For a number of years he was an executive of the Oxford Paper Company. He was unmarried.

FORMER DARTMOUTH ATHLETE, DIES

Cincinnati, O., March 11 (I. N. S.)—A man identified as Howard S. Teale, about 60 years of age, said to be a former well-known Dartmouth football player, of Rochester, N. Y., was found dead in a hotel room here today by a friend, J. M. Bobb, of Columbus, O.

Heart disease was given as the cause of death.

Edward G. Herb, captain of the Medford High football team last Fall, is one of the 60 New England youths taking the entrance examinations for West Point at the Army Base.

Herb is an all around athlete, having gained his letter in football, basketball and baseball at Medford High. His father is a warrant officer at the Army Base.

BROCKTON TO PLAY SALEM

Brockton High clashes with Salem, the defending champion, in the semifinal round of the M. I. T. scholastic basketball tournament at the Tech hangar [illegible]. The contest will be [illegible] by the other semifinal between Medford and Dedham. Of the four teams remaining in the tournament Dedham is the only one not seeded in the draw.

Medford, the ruling favorite, is picked to come through to the finals, but Dedham upset the dope when it defeated Arlington and may surprise again.

So far Dedham has shown fine defensive play, but only in the final moments of its game with Arlington did it show well on the attack. Carey, Carroll and Callahan showed real goal scoring ability.

Medford, with Arant, Chalmers and [illegible] in the forward line and Cochran and Herb on the defense, should still defeat [illegible] Dedham.

The Salem team, winner of the event a year ago, is in there going strong. It is up against the real thing in Brockton, however.

Salem may reach the finals, but indications are that Brockton will triumph over the Witches. The final will be played tomorrow night at the Tech Hangar.

Miss Wall Wins Bellair Golf Title

Belleair Heights, Fla., March 11 (A P.)—Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., today won the Belleair women's golf championship by winning one up from Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit.

Sox Prepare for First Game With Pelicans

By BILL GRIMES

New Orleans, La., March 11.—The Red Sox are going through their final practice session today before their first contest of the season, which will be played against the New Orleans club tomorrow afternoon.

Bill Grimes.

[illegible]

The Red Sox will get in a [illegible] batting session [illegible] with the hopes that the practice will sharpen up their eyes and set them right to step in and hit a few off the New Orleans pitchers.

Slim Harriss will start on the mound tomorrow for the Red Sox. The elongated Texan says that he is right and asked Manager Carrigan to start him. Although Harriss is not the most ambitious looking ball player in the Red Sox camp he has been showing more pepper this Spring than he ever did in the past.

'Here, Tex, You Can't Pull That Stuff'

Cleveland, March 11 (AP.)—Unless Walter Taylor, boxing promoter, turns over to the Cleveland Boxing Commission or the city community fund $2,500 he is alleged to have received from Tex Rickard for cancelling the Jim Maloney-Johnny Risko fight here recently, he will be barred for life from promoting boxing shows here.

This announcement was made today by Edwin Barry, safety director, who called a special meeting of the Boxing Commission to investigate the charges against Taylor.

In asking that the bout be cancelled and Chuck Wiggins substituted for Maloney, Taylor told the commission that Maloney had injured his hand and could not go on.

The matter was re-opened today after receipt of dispatches from New York saying that Rickard had admitted turning over $2,500 for the cancellation of the bout and offering Taylor an additional $1,000 if he would drop negotiations for another match.

When the Maloney-Risko fight was called off there were rumors that Rickard had desired such action because Maloney was matched for a meeting in New York with Jack Sharkey. A poor showing would have lowered interest in the New York bout.

JOHNSON LOST TO SENATORS

Washington, March 11 (A.P.)—An [illegible] the American League [illegible] Senators [illegible] training camp at Tampa, Fla. [illegible] of Walter Johnson, veteran pitching ace, during batting practice.

[illegible] of the accident received here last night said Johnson was suffering from the fracture of a small bone in his left foot [illegible] from the bat of Joe [illegible] and that the injury would keep the pitcher back at least [illegible] training.

[illegible] a plaster cast and [illegible] Washington [illegible] to patiently wait the [illegible] of the broken bone.

Whether Johnson will be able to open the [illegible] game in Washington, which has been his custom for many years, is doubtful.

Should he not be available for duty at the start of the campaign Manager Harris will have to depend largely upon his staff of recruits [illegible] and Marberry, the latter principally a relief hurler, being the only other veterans of the mound corps.

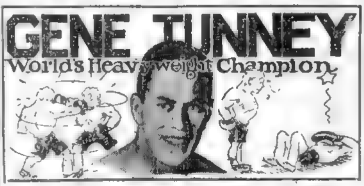
Tigers in Last Stand Tonight

Nearly down for the third time in their struggle to win their way into the play-off in the Canadian-American League, the Boston Tigers hope to be able to use the game with the New Haven Eagles here tonight as a lifesaver to pull them through.

If the local team fails to win, its last chance to get into the title series will be gone.

The Eagles, likewise, have much at stake tonight. A win will put them within reach of the league leaders.

The game will mark the last appearance of one of the best defence players in the Canadian-American league. Hober Kitchen, formerly of the Canadiens who has bolstered up the New Haven outfit considerably.



World's Champion Tells Why He Flew to Philadelphia—Says 'Goat-Getting' Is Unethical—Will Never Practice It

EVER since fight day last September, when I made the trip from Stroudsburg, Penn., to Philadelphia via aeroplane, many have been curious to know why I took "such a tremendous risk."

They've wondered too if the act was one of bravado, designed to do the thing that is called "getting the goat" of Jack Dempsey.

The real truth is I wanted to get to Philadelphia [illegible] and [illegible] traffic [illegible]

And so when [illegible] offered to fly to Philadelphia [illegible] I just [illegible] my [illegible] trip [illegible]

[illegible] before the September [illegible] I made the 90 minute flight from Stroudsburg [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] I always had [illegible] to go up in a [illegible] and see what [illegible] The opportunity came to me [illegible] day and I seized it.

Yes, I was a bit nauseated while in the air and a little bit sick after [illegible] the 90 minute [illegible] It's nothing unusual for a "first flighter" [illegible] was [illegible] and soon were away. Hours before fight time I arrived. I had forgotten [illegible] about the flight so far as the after effects were concerned.

[illegible] the fight and [illegible] But my reactions are different [illegible] and the [illegible] forgot [illegible] dangerous [illegible] And the fact that I've made flights since then proves that I like an aeroplane especially if its use can get me somewhere in a hurry and make it possible for me to avoid tedious [illegible]

The "goat getting" thing never entered my mind when I decided upon flying on fight day. If I had given any thought at all as to how [illegible] I would [illegible] have [illegible] conclusion [illegible] that my [illegible] I'd "get [illegible] goat."

But I was fortunate on that trip, [illegible] aftermath and I was a [illegible] of the [illegible] long time before the battle started.

"Goat getting" long has been a favorite stunt of many great ring men. But I've never practiced the art. I've never tried by one ruse or another, by trickery or subterfuge to take the nerve or [illegible] out of my opponent. I felt it wasn't necessary. And certainly I wasn't deviating from an old custom by trying to beat Dempsey with "goat getting" tactics.

Inasmuch as I've won 60 out of the 61 fights of my career—losing but one, and that a decision to Harry Greb—it would seem that I really do not need "goat getting" to assist me. And I don't think I'll ever need it so long as I can jab and hook with my left hand, hit solidly with my right and keep the other fellow OFF BALANCE.

Why should I try "goat getting" to get a man off balance when I have learned the trick of keeping him off balance either by feinting or by jabbing him just as he is getting set to hit? Why resort to tricks when I can use a bit of skill—or call it generalship—to accomplish my purpose?

BIG SWIM MEET AT WORCESTER TOMORROW

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Two New England championship races will be staged at the open swim meet of the Worcester Boys' Club in the latter's tank tomorrow night.

Frank Grant, present New England A. A. U. champion, will defend his 220 yard free style title in one of the events, while a large field will compete for the 100 yard free style junior championship.

In addition to the two title events there will be a number of other attractions, including two Worcester county title events and a 60 yard novice race. The two [illegible] championships will [illegible] 50 yards free style swim and diving.

There will be a crack group of starters in the [illegible] New England title race, including Grant, [illegible] Timm and [illegible] Larsen of the Worcester Y. M. C. A., and Tim Kenney of the Boston Swimming Association [illegible]

George Grimm

Grant holds the National junior 100 yards championship, also the 50 yards, 100 yards and 220 yards New England free style honors, but he will have to be at his best to win tomorrow night.

Six prominent swimmers will churn the water in the 100 yards junior championship race. Lloyd Osborne, Newton High swimmer and member of the Brookline Swimming Club, Dean Baker, Dave Browning and Alfred Hooper of the Boston Swimming Association, Jack Barnes, Boston Latin School student competing unattached, and Hamilton Lincoln of Country Day School will have it out for the honors.

B. C. GRID STAR SEEKS RING FAME

Jack Donahue, Giant Eagle, in Buckley's Stable; Wants to Be Heavy Champion

By JOHN B. GILLOOLY

Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, had to defeat Jack Dempsey before he could [illegible] the [illegible] of a literary [illegible] but Jack Donahue, former Boston College football captain, and newest contender for the heavyweight crown, has a considerable knowledge of the arts and is now on the trail of Gene's boxing title.

[illegible] are beginning [illegible] and query [illegible] is the boxing game coming to. In the good old days [illegible] the fighters [illegible] of batting for hours [illegible] and gave a boxer [illegible] was considered more or less of a set-up.

[illegible] and Tunney never [illegible] there would [illegible] of the merits of Cicero as [illegible]. The promoter of the [illegible] even go so far as to have a college professor enter the ring to referee the contest of brains [illegible] referee to decide the [illegible] in brawn.

DONAHUE'S CUE

[illegible] Tex Rickard [illegible] boxing and uses the [illegible] as [illegible] of [illegible]. This is Donahue's cue. He [illegible] the question 'What do you think of Horace's Ode on Spring?' and while Gene's mind wanders off into literary realms he can cross his powerful right and ascend to the pinnacle in the fight world.

This story of Buster Donahue being a possible champion is not a [illegible] Harry Kelley of Kelley and Hayes' gym, will tell you that the big B. C. bruiser is the greatest heavyweight prospect he has ever seen. Harry ought to know for he has been in the business since Santa Claus was a baby and has seen them all come and go. He led Johnny Wilson to the world's middleweight championship and has accomplished many amateur feats. Kelly has taken over the job of training Donahue at his gym.

Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, who also knows a good [illegible] when he sees one, has admitted Donahue to his stable. Buckley noticed Donahue one day while the huge Eagle was strolling down Tremont street, and decided to get acquainted.

IN BUCKLEY'S STABLE.

He lost no time in getting Donahue to consent to becoming one of his proteges. Since that time it has been a battle of Buster versus avoirdupois. He has been getting in shape on the B. C. track and then hiking to Kelly's Gym to improve on his speed and skill. Donahue is down to 22[illegible] pounds at the present time and stands six feet two. He will train until the end of school in June and then engage in his initial bout. Buckley and Kelley hope to have him down to 210 before they enter him in his first contest.

Donahue captained the Boston College eleven in 1925. He was one of the best linesmen in the country alternating, at guard and tackle. He is repeating his senior year at the Heights and will get an A. B. degree in June.

MALDEN AND FRANKLIN GIRLS PLAY BASKETBALL

The Malden A. C. basketball team will meet the Franklin Girls' Town team on the Dean Academy gym floor tomorrow.

Some half hundred fans and members of the organization from Malden, headed by Jimmy MacLellan, eight-year-old mascot, will journey by bus to cheer the team.

The Malden A. C. quintet has won eight out of ten games already this season and would like to challenge any girls' court teams for the state title.

Dan Morgan Picks Maloney to Win From Sharkey

Dan Morgan, [illegible] one of the [illegible], has come right out [illegible] Jim Maloney to hand Jack Sharkey a [illegible] when the B[illegible] heavyweight stars battle in a 15-round bout at the Yankee Stadium [illegible] May 1[illegible].

"Maloney is [illegible] a thumper for Sharkey," said Morgan. "I told [illegible] Shamus [illegible] that Delaney [illegible] Newark [illegible] on Maloney [illegible] Sharkey from the [illegible]."

[illegible] Sharkey continues to [illegible] Evening American's voting contest.

Sharkey has received 282 votes [illegible] for the South Boston [illegible] in Boston, Maloney is [illegible] in the cities and towns in New England other than the Hub Sharkey is getting the big vote.

Both boxers are now resting up so that they [illegible] of vitality when [illegible] training. Sharkey has been [illegible] of his bout with [illegible] for March 23, on account of a cut lip and damaged eye. He received these in [illegible] in his tussle with M[illegible].

Mark two crosses on your ballot. Mark one cross beside the name of the boxer you believe will win and another to designate how you believe the contest will end. Mark a cross under the round where you think a knockout will be scored provided you believe the fight won't go the distance. There are also places to mark for "decision," "draw," etc.

Then mail ballot to Sporting Editor, Boston Evening American, Winthrop square, Boston.

Cheese Is Important and Economical Item in Menu

By MARTHA LEE

TODAY I sing a Lenten [illegible] eggs, fish 'n cheese. Maybe you think I harp [illegible] cheese, but since we've done so much laboratory work [illegible] the Martha Lee Kitchen I've realized what an [illegible] item it is in our daily menus.

We, as a nation, eat [illegible] cheese [illegible] nations. [illegible] tion of [illegible] twenty-six pounds per person per year. In England [illegible] to ten pounds per person and in this country, it is only four.

Cheese comes in so many forms—some de[illegible] as they are "different" and [illegible] excellent in combination [illegible] think what [illegible] cream cheese can add to a fruit salad.

There's a new cheese that's just reached us from the West[illegible] cheese packed in [illegible] tions to a box [illegible] pdafer—than [illegible] tasted anything [illegible]. The cheese has [illegible] by an unhastened natural [illegible] duces a distinct [illegible] and removes the un[illegible] after-effects which some [illegible] have [illegible] thought resulted [illegible] cheese.

This new cheese is a perfect food for children [illegible] over it as a [illegible] spread [illegible] rarebit, in [illegible] and as a condiment.

I have written so often about fish that I sh[illegible] need to add anything at [illegible] I can tell you that [illegible] last week more than a million [illegible] were brought into Boston [illegible] and they tell me that the boats are still coming in.

That means that if you once learn how palatable haddock can be you'll make use of this [illegible] fish while the price is low. The amount you'll save in this way will go far toward a new Easter bonnet.

Now for some dinner menus. For tonight, I [illegible] eggs with pimento [illegible] mashed [illegible] spinach and [illegible] cake.

For the creamed eggs [illegible] a fourth of a pound of pimento cheese through a grater. Make a cream sauce using 2 tablespoons each of flour and butter.

When they are blended add a half teaspoon of salt and then stir in [illegible] milk. When this is well cooked add the pimento cheese. Arrange on a hot platter one slice of toast for each serving.

Pour a little of the cheese sauce over the toast. Then cut hard-[illegible] eggs in pieces, allowing one egg for each serving on the toast. [illegible] the rest of the sauce over the [illegible] garnish with parsley and serve at once.

The spinach and the turnip can be prepared as usual, and should be served piping hot to be truly enjoyed.

For another lenten meal, I suggest baked haddock with tomato sauce, baked potatoes, fresh tomato salad and tapioca cream. If your family is large enough to use the entire fish, get a whole haddock and [illegible].

It is much more economical than the steak cuts and can be very appetizing when properly prepared.

If you use the steaks season each [illegible] with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Place in an earthen baking dish and pour over one cup of stewed tomatoes from which you have drained most of the juice.

If you use more than one slice of fish, add an extra half-cup of tomato for each slice.

Allow a half onion for each slice of fish and [illegible] that over the fish and tomatoes, dot with butter and bake for twenty minutes. Remove from the oven, add 1/2 cup cream, return to oven and bake for ten minutes more.

For stuffed haddock, remove the skin, head and tail from a four pound haddock. Bone, leaving in [illegible] near the head to keep the fillets in the shape of the [illegible] fish. The fishman will prepare it according to your directions [illegible] than you can. [illegible] season with salt and brush [illegible] the greased [illegible] dripping pan and cover [illegible] have [illegible] and dipped in cracker [illegible] and seasoned with salt and pepper. Cover [illegible] with the other fillet [illegible] with a [illegible] beaten egg [illegible] cracker crumbs and bake for fifty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with [illegible] sauce. For [illegible] amount of fish allow a pint of oysters and a cup of cracker crumbs.

Your ever faithful,
MARTHA LEE.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My husband has just received the marriage announcement of a business friend.

How should this be answered, and does it call for a present?

A READER.

WHILE it is not required that we answer wedding announcements, since they are essentially only the formal spreading of the news, still, [illegible] to include [illegible] the announcement [illegible] write at [illegible] thanks. So I advise [illegible] band write [illegible] of congratulations [illegible] friend of his, and in it send his best wishes to the bride.

It is not necessary to send a present. Of course [illegible] ents, anyway, is a question of [illegible] wish, and no outsider can tell us when we should send one. However, for such a casual relationship as this, I see no reason for your sending one.

DEAR MRS. [illegible]

At a community gathering a young man was introduced to me. He was very pleasant, and I spoke to him for quite a while. I met this young man again at another social function and then again at another. The last time I saw him he told me that he was leaving town for about two months and [illegible] he would drop me a card. This he did, and he [illegible] answer [illegible] I don't know how to address him [illegible] letter [illegible]

UNDER the circumstances I recommend that you follow his cue [illegible] send to him [illegible] a card [illegible] that a letter [illegible] chosen. [illegible] be interpreted as [illegible] card.

SOME YOUNG MEN THINK CHORUS GIRLS DESIRABLE —

SOME young MEN seem to think
That CHORUS GIRLS are different
From any OTHER girls. More DARING
And more desirable. How AMUSING!

And MANY a WOMAN will WORRY
Over her SON falling in LOVE with A SHOW GIRL, who never fears his
FALLING for a STENOGRAPHER. How QUEER!

For the STENOGRAPHER has far more
INFLUENCE over an impressionable MALE
Than a CHORUS GIRL. For the girl on The STAGE is less ACCESSIBLE.

She may SHOW more of her CHARM, but it is out
Of REACH. The STENOGRAPHER, who is both BEHIND
A man and in FRONT of him all day long, has the POWER of PROPINQUITY. If she WANTS to USE it.

The Woman Who Got a Divorce

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE woman who is no longer quite so young has divorced her husband; she is going to marry another man. It's all rather a pity. Her husband was a decent sort and devoted to her. But he was not rich and he was not so very well. [illegible]

One day she happened to look at a young farmer who was helping on the ranch; he was tall and rosy, broad-shouldered and very strong. He looked as if he had never been [illegible] in his life. She spoke to him [illegible] and he answered [illegible]

In [illegible] the neighbors were [illegible] than a year the wo[illegible] and for divorce. She [illegible] and [illegible] tempered [illegible] thought more of his mother than he did of her. She said all sorts of foolish things. She never told her husband what she had done until he learned it by accident. Her husband looked as if a knife had been thrust into his loving, devoted heart, but he would not lift a finger to protect himself.

"I will never try to get any woman to live with me who wants to get away from me," he said. [illegible] the woman got the divorce and the husband did not lift a finger to prevent it. In less than six months he was dead, and the woman who is no longer quite so young, doesn't have to wait for the year of probation to be up before she marries the other.

But somehow she hasn't married him. I wonder why? Is he less interested in her now that there is no romance of mystery about their affair? Has he heard, perhaps, of what the husband said to one of his own family who spoke a little slightingly of his wife?

"[illegible] was a good wife to me for [illegible] and [illegible] husband. "I have been ill a long time, it was hard for her; don't be harsh in your judgment."

If the OTHER MAN did happen to hear of that, I wonder how it made him feel; don't you?

Now if the woman had only waited a few months longer, her friends would be all sympathizing with her now in her grief over her husband's death and things would be very different.

Sometimes it seems as if the old belief that life is a thread spun by three weird Fates might be something [illegible] doesn't [illegible] woman who [illegible] and [illegible] laugh, sometimes, when they see how the thread is running!

Springtime Care of the Hair

By Maria Jeritza

WHILE Spring cannot be said to be literally here as yet, it is not too early to begin preparation for mild days of sunshine and balmy air by modifying your beauty regime slightly, to meet new conditions.

For instance, there are ways of safe-guarding the hair when Winter wanes which should help to keep it looking at its best, so that it will [illegible] its best with your new Spring frocks.

Your new Easter wardrobe, no matter how lovely it may be, will be practically wasted so far as effect [illegible] you yourself are looking [illegible] freshest and best.

[illegible] may notice that your hair seems lifeless and falls out in profusion toward the end of Winter. Probably, the basic reason is that you have permitted yourself to become a little run down, due to lack of exercise in the fresh air, and possibly too many late parties and too much heavy food.

Begin now to build up your health, so that the first warm days will not leave you with exhausted vitality. Eat more greens and fruit and fresh vegetables. Substitute fruit desserts for heavy pastry. Take less coffee and tea, more milk and buttermilk. Allow yourself more sleep. Get out in the air every day. Be sure not to omit that daily constitutional of yours, which is great fun and vitalizes your skin and hair. When it is mild and you can do so, throw open all the windows or venture outdoors a moment now and then, bare-headed. All these measures should soon result in new gloss and vitality for your hair.

If your hair is dry and falls out, you may like to try the following delightful shampoo: Castile soap, one-half cake, Borax (powdered), four teaspoonfuls; Bay rum, one ounce; Italian pink (or other perfume oil), twenty drops, and warm water, one quart.

Make a lather of these ingredients. Wet your hair, then scrub both your scalp and hair with a soft nail-brush or your finger-tips dipped in this lather. Go over it thoroughly, rinse it in a bowl of lukewarm water, then, a second time lather, scrub and rinse your scalp and hair. Unless the water rinse clear, repeat the process a third time and finally rinse it in cool water. Dry your hair carefully by brisk rubbing with Turkish towels.

If you devote a little more than the time you usually allot to your hair for the next few weeks, you will be surprised to find how healthy and lovely it looks and feels by the time Spring arrives.

Modern Methods in Scarlet Fever

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association

SCARLET fever is most easily communicated in overheated and poorly ventilated homes, especially in crowded quarters.

Scarlet fever is caused by a germ of the poison or toxin producing variety called streptococcus.

As soon as the germ of scarlet fever was isolated by Dick, the control of the disease under the natural law of cause and effect became practicable.

That control is based upon due observance of additional facts stressed by Kolmon before a recent meeting of the American Child Health Association.

The greatest liability to scarlet fever is between the ages of six months and five years.

The liability to the disease can be safely determined by the Dick test, but so large a proportion of children have thus been found liable that it is advised that all children of this age be rendered immune as a matter of routine. This is a safe procedure.

While the period of resulting immunity or even the proportion of children thus rendered immune, has not yet been determined, the fact that immunization does result covering a period of probably three years is believed by students of the question to be firmly established.

We are advised by high authority (Boston Medical and Surgical Journal) that it is advisable to administer prophylactic serum in the presence of intimate exposure in private families or institutional outbreaks of the disease. The protection is immediate and lasts about four to six weeks in most individuals. The curative value of anti-scarlet fever serum is definitely established. The administration should constitute a part of the treatment in all cases.

We are also advised that a good preparation of scarlet fever antitoxin given early in the disease and in sufficient doses produces a quick [illegible] there is an [illegible] A [illegible] is [illegible] a full [illegible] given. The Midnight Message

by MARTEN CUMBERLAND and B. U. SHANN

The Thrill of Love and Millions Abounds in Every Chapter

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Luke Jefferies, walking along a London street, is asked by Mary Vickers to come into her father's house. The father is dying and seeks someone to whom he can entrust a mission Abraham Steel, an old friend, has discovered a substitute for petrol. Agents of a powerful oil syndicate are seeking the formula. Vickers is trying to protect Steel. He offers Jefferies a big reward if he will take his place. As he dies he warns him against Monsieur Carnifex. Mary goes to live with Madge Aldhouse and Jefferies meets her and her brother, Jack Enderby. They go to Steel's house in the country. While there, Carnifex bursts in and threatens Steel with death if he does not meet his terms. Steel is murdered, but partly tells Jefferies where his papers are. The man who killed him reports to Carnifex that Jefferies now has the secret. Jefferies calls on Curwen Brown of the Foreign Office, who promises his assistance in running down the conspirators. With Brown, he tries unsuccessfully to find Steel's former landlady, hoping she has the inventor's papers. Jefferies falls in love with Mary. He nearly loses his life and is saved by Jack Enderby. Mary is kidnaped by Carnifex. Carnifex calls on Curwen Brown, who gives him one month to leave the country provided Mary is set free. Jefferies discovers a wireless transmitter in Carnifex's house. He hears a message being sent, but discovers it is in code, and gets away without being seen. He decides that indifference toward Mary and her fate is the only way to pursuade Carnifex to set her free.

With this end in view Luke cultivates a friendship with Mavis Bane, an actress. She takes his attentions seriously.

Mary wonders if she has fallen into a trap.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XXII.

Luke Jefferies stopped in his stroll down Piccadilly, and glanced into a [illegible] window. He looked earnest at the [illegible] for half a minute, [illegible] he [illegible] on.

His suspicion was well founded. [illegible] shabbily dressed man he [illegible] was following him, moreover it was the man he had seen in Carnifex's house, the man called Weber.

Luke Jefferies did not hurry, but he swung the silver-headed cane in his hand gently to and fro. That cane was not so light and ornamental as it appeared.

Jeffries was calling upon Mavis Bane to take her out for lunch. He saw no reason to change his programme, so proceeded steadily towards the Buckingham Palace road.

As he went down St. James street he was aware that the short man was closer, scarcely half a dozen yards behind him. Jefferies noticed that a motor car was crawling along apparently following both of them. His jaw set firmly at the sight.

He was just by St. James' Palace when the small man spoke. He said, "Excuse me," and raised his shabby bowler hat with a flourish.

Jeffries turned towards him.

"Well, my friend," he said pleasantly. "You have been a long time making up your mind to speak. What can I do for you?"

The small man's eyes darted about him. Jeffries noted that the motor that had followed them down St. James' street had now drawn in at the curb on the other side of the road.

After a glance around, the small man took a letter from his pocket and handed it to Jefferies. With his cane tucked under his arm, Jefferies opened the envelope and read:

"Dear Mr. Jeffries:

"I have been in these terrible people's power for days now, and I feel that all my courage is leaving me. The things I have had to bear in this house, the whereabouts of which is unknown to me, are intolerable. I simply cannot stand the strain any longer, and I cannot tell you the things they threaten to do to me unless you give them the secret.

"Perhaps you will think me a coward, but I beg of you, Mr. Jefferies, to give Monsieur Carnifex the secret that Abraham Steel passed on to you. Your allegiance was promised to my father, but I know that he would not place such a thing before his daughter's honor—before her very life.

"The bearer of this note is the one friend I have in this terrible house. He is risking his life to take this message to you. Once more I beg of you to let them have the secret. Another day of this, and I shall go mad.

"Yours desperately,

"Mary Vickers."

Jefferies read the letter through [illegible]. He had never seen Mary Vickers' handwriting, and he was unable to decide whether the forgery was clever or clumsy. But [illegible] was a forgery he had no [illegible]. Mary Vickers asked him to reveal a secret that she knew he did not possess. He [illegible] and turned to Weber with a smile.

Weber Declared He Had Risked Life Over Letter

"You risked your life to carry this message?" he asked.

Weber nodded, modestly embarrassed.

"I couldn't see the little lady illtreated by those blackguards," he growled in excellent English. "I'm with Carnifex up to a point, sir, but not when it comes to torturing women."

Jefferies laughed.

"Especially pretty women, [illegible] What's your name?"

"Heine, sir, Karl Heine."

"Well, Mr. Heine, let me tell you that though I admire your quixotic gallantry, you're a damned fool. You may risk your neck for a petticoat, but I only risk mine when there's something more than pretty glances to be made out of it. I play for my own hand, my dear sir, and you can tell the fair Mary Vickers that from me, with my compliments." A look of avidity came into his face, and he spoke with a sneer. "I'm on to a big thing, and by God, I'd see a thousand like her go through it before I give up. Take my tip, and cut out sentimentality, Mr. Heine. It doesn't pay in a hard world."

The other looked at him with disappointment not unmixed with admiration.

"But surely, sir, you don't understand that the little lady is nearly mad with terror. You must save her if you can. I could tell you things they've done to her that would make your blood boil."

Jefferies put his hand to his mouth to mask a grin.

"I think not, Mr. Heine. My blood doesn't easily boil. I hope for your sake Carnifex won't hear of your quixotic exploit this morning. Good day."

Jefferies turned abruptly, and left Weber staring after him. Jefferies strode across the park towards Buckingham Palace Road, and his jaw was set savagely.

The letter from Mary had been a clever piece of work, certainly a forgery; but was there any truth in what the man had said as to the ill treatment Mary was undergoing? Jefferies cut the air savagely with his stick and swore.

Mavis Bane found Jefferies rather a dull companion when he escorted her to lunch that day.

"You looked at the poor little bald-headed waiter as though you'd like to eat him," she rallied.

"He reminds me of someone," he answered.

Women's Health

Is protected and charm assured this NEW way of solving their oldest hygienic problem; true protection; discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

SCORES of women's disorders are largely traced today to old-time "sanitary pads," insecure and unsanitary.

Eight in 10 better-class women today employ "KOTEX."

Wear lightest gowns and frocks without a second thought, any day anywhere.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

Deodorizes. Ends all fear of offending.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." No embarrassment.

In fairness to yourself, try this new way. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

'Hollywood Girl'; Stella and Bobbie Discuss Men and Pictures

[illegible] from the scenes, [illegible] finished [illegible].

Bobbie shook her head. Then very [illegible] with [illegible] was no good [illegible].

"No, I'm [illegible] down to Tia Juana with some people," [illegible].

[illegible] here in Hollywood." Then, as [illegible] towards Monica's bedroom on the other side of the house.

"She going?" she asked, and her tone made it plain that she didn't think much of Monica Mont[illegible].

"Yes, Monica's going, and so's Gus McCloud—and some other people," faltered Bobbie, wondering how she had happened to tell all this to Stella when she had just made up her mind not to! "We're starting [illegible] morning [illegible]. I don't know [illegible] get away from the studio [illegible] a day [illegible] with [illegible] on Joan Joyce's picture."

[illegible] it would be simple enough [illegible] her. "Is Joan Joyce going on this party?" Her green eyes were cold and wise, and her voice [illegible].

"[illegible] I can't tell you—" Bobbie was beginning when she cut in.

"[illegible] can!" she snapped. "And I can tell you that she's not going, without even asking anybody about it! She's not the kind of person who goes on joy rides to a gambling town with a lot of rowdies! That's why she's where she is today! At the top of the heap!"

Bobbie straightened up, stopped rubbing her head with a Turkish towel, and listened to her with wide eyes.

"There Are Two Kinds of People in Hollywood"

"There are two kinds of people in Hollywood just as there are two kinds everywhere," Stella went on. "The sober, sensible people who are making the pictures and acting them—getting somewhere. And the other kind that do all the jazzing around and raising Cain! It's up to you [illegible] want to be."

"[illegible] Surely he's the [illegible]," Bobbie pointed out.

Something like a spasm of pain passed over Stella's queer [illegible] white face [illegible] enormous eyes and [illegible].

"[illegible] men [illegible] are different. They can do as they please and get away with it," she said. "I was talking [illegible] for example. Gus M[illegible] can run around with [illegible] girls that aren't so [illegible], and [illegible]? He's a man. But a girl's got to keep some kind of pride or [illegible]—specially out here in Hollywood. And a [illegible] with any [illegible] wouldn't go tearing off to Tia Juana with a lot of [illegible]. [illegible] you [illegible] probably [illegible] some time, and not then, maybe."

Bobbie shivered and pulled her shell-pink kimono tighter around her knees and shoulders. September night are cold in California.

She looked at Stella Delroy, whose real name was Riggs, with eyes that measured her. Stella wasn't getting ahead in Hollywood, for all her purity and her preaching. She worked like a dog taking any job, and yet her clothes were shoddy [illegible] and neither [illegible] powder could give [illegible]. The mark of failure was on Stella [illegible].

[illegible] "Good night, [illegible]," she said. "I'm going to bed. And you think over what I said. I know what I'm talking about. [illegible] around this town when I first came and it got me nowhere. I'll tell you all about it some time when I'm in the mood."

Once more [illegible] queer little look of pain showed in her face for just a second. Then she had opened the door and closed it behind her.

Bobbie sat motionless on the edge of the [illegible] bed and stared at her [illegible] reflection in the [illegible] of the dresser across the room.

"But Monica tears around like a wild woman, and she's getting on [illegible] around with herself. [illegible] tough as shoe leather and yet [illegible] is going to give her a good comedy part in a picture."

She Had Asked Andy to Take Her to a Show

She wondered if the private doings of the movie folk had anything to do with their success or failure after all.

"If you can just get some director crazy about you, you're made!" Monica had said. "Pull's the thing that counts in Hollywood!"

Old it? And did it make any real difference if she went to Tia Juana the next day or not, Bobbie wondered.

"I want to go, goodness knows!" she whispered to herself. "I haven't wanted to do anything so much since I can remember."

In the end it was a long-forgotten memory that settled things for her. A memory of something that had happened between herself and Andy Jerrold more than a year before.

She had asked Andy to take her to a talked-of show, back home. Some of the gang they ran with were going to go, just for a larky devilish thing to do.

They did go, too. But not she and Andy! For Andy refused pointblank to take her. The show, he had said, was no place to take a girl that you respected and cared for.

"I might take some girls there, but not you, Bobbie," he had told her, and she remembered how grim he had looked at the time. But not you!"

That was men for you! They'd do wild things themselves and they didn't care if certain women did them—but not their own women—not the ones they cared for. Other women might take a cocktail or a cigaret or go to certain shows for the fun of it, but not their women'

"And that's just it," said Bobbie Ransom to herself that September night, making up her mind at last. "If this Gus MacCloud really cared for me, he wouldn't have wanted me to go to a terrible town called 'Satan Town' with him. He thinks I'm just a good time girl' Well, [illegible] asked, dashing [illegible] for a second, a bright-colored clothes, dangling beads and bracelets and violent [illegible].

Bobbie sitting up in bed with her arms [illegible] her [illegible] silently [illegible] her head. She was dying to go and it was hard to pass up this good time.

"All right, but you're missing half of your life, little darling goody-goody!" said Monica, and slammed the door behind her.

Bobbie peeked out from behind her bedroom curtains. Gus McCloud was alone in his big roadster. There were three men and three gay-looking girls in [illegible] green car.

Monica [illegible] door of MacCloud's [illegible] and [illegible] in as [illegible] to her. [illegible] after [illegible] heavy as [illegible].

How to Have Soft, Pretty White Hands

Many women will undoubtedly be glad to know how they may have beautiful, white, soft, pretty hands regardless of the work they have to do. The secret lies in rubbing a little Ice-Mint into the hands occasionally, preferably just before retiring at night. In the morning you will be agreeably surprised at the pleasant transformation that has been wrought by even a single application. Ice-Mint is made from a Japanese product that is simply marvelous for its beautifying properties, whether used on the hands or face. Regardless of what kind of work a woman does she should have pretty hands, as they are really the true marks of refinement. A few applications of Ice-Mint will actually make any woman proud of her hands and skin. It costs little and is sold and recommended by good druggists everywhere.

One Shade flatters all complexions

Kissproof Rouge is expressly made for the woman of refinement who objects to the obvious. It is so utterly natural one would never know you used a rouge at all.

It Stays On

One application of Kissproof stays on all day—smearproof, rubproof, and windproof. A revelation to women accustomed to the ordinary rouge that requires constant touching up. In paste and compact form. At all the best stores, 75c.

WHICH IS RIGHT?

THERE'S a line on [illegible] calendar that [illegible] the [illegible] secret for all progress. It [illegible] "I'll bind myself to that [illegible] being right, will not be less right when I shrink from [illegible]"

All very simple, [illegible] one might have [illegible] wish to cling to a right thing no matter how disagreeable the clinging would be occasionally.

But it is more dynamic than that.

We all have our glimpses of the ideal. Not one of us but at some time in his life—perhaps many times—climbs his Sinai.

Easy enough to be convinced of truth on the heights. There vision is clear, there the false thing and the wrong thing sink into obscurity and become obliterated.

There we meet the genuine face to face and resolve to take it for [illegible]. Being right, we bind ourselves to [illegible].

But [illegible] is down the [illegible] doesn't always [illegible] fall athwart our [illegible] seems natural [illegible] to the [illegible] the false as real.

It [illegible] we strike from the [illegible]. To bring it to the turmoil, to cling to it when all about us seems to say, "That has no place here, that is not practical and courageous and reasonable; that will get us nowhere in the material world [illegible] thing we must do if we [illegible] real progress.

This is [illegible] ourselves to that which, once [illegible] right, always is right.

MEN—AND MONEY

By Ruth Logan

JOHN TAYLOR took the slim white hand that lay carelessly along the arm of the great chair in [illegible] Lane [illegible]

[illegible] could always [illegible]

"[illegible]" [illegible] necessary."

The remark [illegible] her side. He [illegible] She stopped him with a forefinger placed across the crimson bow. "John, I can't do it. I've thought it over for days. We'd be a failure."

Sad hurt eyes met her own. The man retreated [illegible] "All right [illegible]. If that [illegible] my love means [illegible] you I [illegible] get out of your life. I hate to think you are——"

"Are what?" she asked quickly.

"Are—are something less than my ideal of you," he murmured.

True to his self-made promise John Lawton saw [illegible] Natalie Lane. But [illegible] sources he learned of her and of the man with whom she spent much of her time. Of all men in the world Lawton hated Sam Granger most. It made his blood run cold to think of the frail lovely Natalie in company with this Granger [illegible] to recognition was [illegible].

On the night that Natalie's show closed Lawton took occasion to speak his mind to Granger.

"I always thought you were a simp," the young man informed Natalie's suitor, "but I never knew how great a fool you [illegible] were. Have you no decency in your soul, you ruthless vulture?"

To the dismay of those who overheard the conversation in the lounge of the club, Sam Granger merely laughed. He had been known to use his fist on lesser occasions of insult.

"And you," said Sam pleasantly, "are almost as stupid as your father. I shall have Natalie ask you both to the wedding."

Natalie toured to London and John Lawton journeyed along a dissipated path. Women and song played a very small part in his life but bootleggers began doing a tremendous business with him. The father of the young man began racking his brain for a diversion that would replace the cursed moonshine. He discovered, however, that one who had become a devotee at that shrine desired not to change [illegible].

"I'd give one million dollars," said Lawton senior, desperately, "to the person who could guarantee that my son would straighten up."

"I take you," said Sam Granger, rising slowly from his chair and joining a group of three men who had been smoking in the lounge. "Is your son's promise sufficient guarantee?"

Mr. Lawton studied Granger. "My son's word is good with me. He's a Lawton."

Granger chuckled in his throat. Three men watched him leave the club. Lawton shook his head. "I haven't really any hope that Sam Granger can do for John what I cannot do—what he hasn't will power enough to do for himself."

Thirty minutes later young John Lawton came in. He walked directly to his father. "I know, sir, that I am not at present in any condition to talk to you seriously. I mean in a condition to be taken seriously. But you will see for yourself. Is it true that you will give one million dollars to the person who can straighten me up?"

"Yes, and I'd make it two, willingly," said Lawton, brokenly. "I'd give every cent I own to know that I'd never see you drunk again."

"Well make it two," said John. "I'll win and keep the money in the family. I've just cabled Natalie asking her to come back and be my wife."

His father grasped him by the coat lapels. "John, you can't want that woman after she showed you so plainly that it was only money she cared for."

John laughed and his eyes sobered. From a pocket he drew forth a folded bit of note paper. "If it was money she wanted why did she write this to Sam Granger?"

Mr. Lawton read the letter that was extended to him.

"Dear Sam: For many reasons I have come to be very fond of you and to admire you. But as for marriage, I think you know it is John or nobody so far as I am concerned.

You have perfectly good reason to think me an avaricious creature, but that is not true. For my part I could starve with John and call it fun. But think of his side. He has never known a hardship in all his life. If he married me he would have to give up all luxury he has known. Sooner or later he would resent that and perhaps he might even learn to despise me as the cause. I think you understand, my friend!

Always yours sincerely,
NATALIE."

"H-m-m" said Mr. Lawton softly. And to the surprise of several onlookers he flung his arm about his son's shoulder.

"We were both wrong about the girl," John said eagerly.

"Yes. When do you expect to hear from her?"

"I don't know. She may not cable at all. She said she would never marry me without your approval."

"And if she doesn't, I suppose you mean to go back to drink again?"

The young shoulders straightened. "No, I'm done with that. I was drowning my disappointment or what I thought was my disappointment, but I've come to realize that if I continue I'm bound to drown any love she may have for me!"

"H-m-m!" said Mr. Lawton. Then he snapped his fingers. "Boy, bring me a cable blank."

Over his father's shoulder John Lawton read a message addressed to Natalie.

"My full consent and approval welcomes you to our family.
J. P. LAWTON."

"And now," said John's father, as he finished, "I must look up Sam Granger. You never can tell about a man from hearsay. The worst enemy I thought I had turned out to be my best friend. I'd like to make him a present—a little peace offering."

John Lawton grinned. "I have it," he declared. "There's a case of Scotch in my room at home. You might give him that."

"I'll do it," said Lawton as he left the club. "He'll want something, I'm sure, to drink to the health of the bride!"

MEDBURY SAYS---

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

ACCORDING to a well known efficiency expert there are more people out of work in offices than there are in employment agencies.

THE average clerk doesn't have to be without a job in order to loaf.

THESE office idlers are a great help toward efficiency. When a man doesn't work, he can't make mistakes.

YOU have to do something before the boss can find fault with it.

ONE fellow used to sit at his desk all day and dream. But lately he lost his ambition, and now he just sits there.

HIS employer wanted to let him go, but he couldn't wake him up long enough to fire him.

AND it wouldn't be fair to discharge a man while he's unconscious.

THIS fellow tried sleeping at home but the doorbells disturbed him.

A BOSTON business man has the right idea. He hires three men who do nothing but snore all day and keep the rest of the office force awake.

ONE of these men got insomnia last week and lost his job.

BUT it was his own fault. He went to bed early at night and couldn't do his work the next day.

HE wanted to count sheep but the superintendent wouldn't let him bring them in the building.

HE used to be one of the best stallers in the business. He began as office boy, and before he was twelve years old he had buried nineteen grandmothers.

HE spent so much time sitting in ball parks that his folks thought he was going to grow up to be a diamond setter.

ONE employer says his stenographers are so lazy that if sleeping really helped women to become beautiful, his office would make Ziegfeld's Follies look like a dog show.

BUT at that, there's not one girl in his organization who watches the clock. They're afraid it might be slow.

THERE'S only one way to prevent idleness in your office. Make loafing compulsory.

My little niece complained of toothache, so I got her ready to have it pulled out. As we were going to the dentist's office she said: "Auntie, how much will it be for my tooth?"

"About 50 cents," I said.

"Well," she said. "Auntie, the pain's gone now. Give me the 50 cents to put in my money box."

BOBBIE AND HIS PA -:- BY WILLIAM F. KIRK

PA, I sed to my dad last nite, our teecher toald us that reely grate men was seldum happy. I cant doap that out, Pa, I sed. If I was a reely grate man I think I wud be vary happy.

Yure teecher is rite, Bobbie, sed Pa. One cannot be truly grate & reely happy in this world. At least, sed Pa, I haf not been reely happy.

Ma laffed. You are certingly a rich one, she sed to my dad. The idee of you calling pureself reely grate. & the idea of you saying that you are not happy, sed Ma, with a wife like me & a littel son like Bobbie. The idee, sed Ma.

I bet if I was a grate man I would git a awful kick out of it, I sed.

That is about all a lot of grate men evver got out of it, awful kicks, sed Pa. Old Sockrates was grate & they made him drink poison. Columbus was grate & a lot of knockers made his last years sad. Abrahum Linkum was grate, sed Pa, & he was shot in the back at a opry house. No, Bobbie, sed Pa, grate men are not happy men as a rule.

I am sorry to heer that, I sed. I had all my plans made to be a grate man, I sed, but if I haf to be sad to be grate I think I wud rather stay jest Meedium, I sed.

You are moar than likely to stay jest Meedium any way, Bobbie, sed Ma. Reely grate men were slaves to thare work, sed Ma. It does not run in the fambly, sed Ma, drudging.

I bet if I was grate I wud be happy, anyhow that is how it looks to me, I sed. In the first place if I was grate I wud haf plenty of Doe to spend, & wen you haf plenty of Doe in this world, I sed, thare ain't much that gives you the bedake, I sed.

Bobbie, sed Pa, you haf got it all rong. Munny does not bring happy-ness. The greatest produser of happy-ness is work, sed Pa, good honest work. The moar you dig in, sed Pa, the happyer you are.

If that is trew, sed Ma, I fale to see what keeps you so sunny.

Why, sed Pa, do I not work? Am I not a hussler?

No, sed Ma, you are not what wud be called a hard worker. But I am as well pleesed, sed Ma. If you had been a hard worker you wud have been a marvylus grate man, sed Ma, & then you wud have been unhappy. As it is, sed Ma, you are better off.

Pa is funny that way, he thinks he works hard & he is the only one which thinks so. I guess lots of fokes think thay have it tuffer than they deeserve, but if lots of fokes I know got what thay deeserve thay wud be gitting thare letters from a Turn Key insted of from a Male Man. I will now closse.

ANGRY, SPREADING RASH ON BABY'S BODY

Checked and healed by soothing ointment

Los Angeles, Cal., July 28:—"When my baby was four months old, little red pimples which resembled heat or teething rash appeared on her body. I used various baby powders, but the trouble kept spreading until nearly all the lower part of her body was covered. Then it began to look white and scaly and I knew it was more than an ordinary rash. I decided to try Resinol Ointment, and after the first two or three applications I noticed an improvement. I kept on using this ointment, however, and bought some Resinol Soap to bathe her with. The result was that the trouble completely disappeared. I have always used Resinol Soap for her bath since. She is two years old now, and her skin is absolutely free from any blemish. When my boy began to have ringworms, I was so persistent in the use of Resinol Ointment that they were soon cleared away. I wouldn't be without Resinol in the house, and at the least sign of any eruption on the children, I use it." (Signed) Mrs. L. E. Crenshaw, 7806 Lou Dillon Ave.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT this world needs is more love-making—and less "petting"!

More romance—and less sex-talk!

There is far too much said and thought about "sex," these days—and far too little about love!

• • •

Sex-attraction and love are no more identical than snow and Christmas, sunshine and Spring, or blonde hair and beauty. They may be coincident—and usually are—but they are two things as separate and distinct as brains and education, or comedy and custard pies!

What this world needs is to stop magnifying and glorifying SEX, on the one hand—and to stop cheapening it on the other!

Poor old "sex-appeal" has been so advertised and travestied that it has become the great national joke.

• • •

You can't go to the corner for a package of court plaster or a box of sardines without running into a rush of sex-appeal. "Sex-appeal" rouge and powders spread all over the drug-store window; sex-magazines all over the news-stands; and posters of sex-plays reposing against the cheese and sausages in the delicatessen!

EVERYBODY'S going in for it!

A knock-kneed girl rolls down her stockings, daubs her lips with a sticky, red ointment, wiggles her shoulders—and imagines that she's all tricked out with "dangerous sex-appeal."

An elderly Lothario fixes his faded eye on a pudgy flapper, grins at her with all his bridge-work—and fancies he is exerting "sex-appeal"!

Shades of Don Juan! Forgive us! Whatever "sex-appeal" may be, it is not a burlesque or a Punch-and-Judy show.

Love is the Great Adventure—the most wonderful thing in life!

Sex-attraction is merely an "accessory," before—or after—the beautiful fact of love!

• • •

Sex-attraction is the powerful physical magnetism which often draws two people together. Love is the abiding affection, the deep thrilling tenderness, the perfect understanding and comradeship, which HOLDS them together—long after sex-attraction has faded or departed.

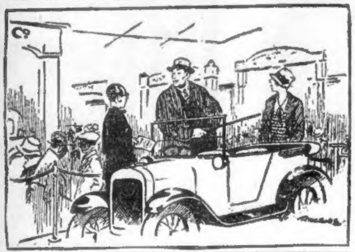
NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Funny, but Not TRUE

Women Drive WELL, and Are the Automobile Industry's Best Friends



Prospective Customer—"I take it, the car is reasonably fool-proof—what I mean, all right for the wife to tootle about in?"

The above picture from London Opinion is all right as a joke, all wrong as a statement of FACT.

Recent tests have shown that in co-educational institutions the young women are better automobile drivers than the men. Millions of women drive cars all over the United States safely and carefully. And, what is more, tens of millions of American women have done at least as much as the men to develop and encourage the automobile industry.

When the family walks, it is the mother that worries about the young children being over-fatigued, about their getting run over on their way to school, about the fact that without an automobile they cannot enjoy the happiness equal to that of the family next door that HAS an automobile.

Many a man lacking initiative or energy to get an automobile of his own accord is persuaded to it by his wife, who agrees if necessary to economize to help in the transaction. After he GETS it, of course, he is delighted with himself, and occasionally forgets that he would not have had it at all BUT FOR HIS WIFE.

IF YOUR WIFE HASN'T AN AUTOMOBILE, GET HER ONE. The human being that really needs something "fool-proof" is the man that might have an automobile, to give happiness to his whole family, friends and himself, and is foolish enough to postpone it.

You don't postpone breathing, eating, sleeping or enjoying the sunshine. Why postpone the one thing, OWNERSHIP OF AN AUTOMOBILE, that makes sleep SOUNDER, breathing DEEPER, appetite BETTER, sunshine and country a thousand times MORE ENJOYABLE.

The automobile industry is fortunate in having among the women of America 10,000,000 first-class saleswomen that bring in sales and ask no commission or salary.

Women that for ages have been slaves to drudgery in the household appreciate, as few men do, what the automobile means, with its freedom, its conquest of distance.

Women whose minds and hearts are intent on keeping the family united know, as no man CAN do, the value of an automobile with the wide seats that lets the whole family "pile in" and roll away together.

The happy woman is she that superintends the packing of the whole family, including the old folks, into the automobile, with the lunch and the luggage strapped on behind, for a trip that includes THE ENTIRE FAMILY.

THE SALOON HAS GONE. It no longer separates the father from his family and from his money.

THE AUTOMOBILE HAS COME. It keeps the American family united.

And women know what that means to the human race and to its happiness and moral strength.

America First!

Perhaps the Time Has Come for Americans to Envisage More Clearly the Urgent Home Needs in Giving

There is an old but fundamentally sound precept which says:

"Charity should begin at home."

It is particularly applicable to this day when there are so many charities and so many well-to-do Americans in a mood to be charitable.

These generous givers since the war have been bestowing an unusual amount of benevolence upon needy foreigners in many lands. There is danger that this habit may operate to the disadvantage of more important and nearer needs.

For instance, one charity ministering to Oriental orphans at a collection cost of about 25 per cent. and an overhead cost of nearly as much more, is now seeking a large sum to care for wards who have reached the razor age.

The United States has many persons under and in the razor age who need attention quite as keenly as these Orientals. If there is plenty for both, fine; but let us keep the emphasis in the right place.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States recently made a study which showed facts almost as surprising and shocking as were the revelations of the draft boards during the war.

It reported nearly one-quarter of all the adults in the nation deficient in the ability to read and write.

It found one child in every ten between the ages of five and seventeen years not attending any school.

Franklin K. Lane estimated that illiteracy was costing us $825,000,000 a year. Three-fifths of our illiterates are native-born. Three of every four of our criminals are uneducated.

So, while admirable rescue work has been done by American philanthropy in other continents and lands, perhaps the time has come for Americans to envisage more clearly the urgent home needs which are still neglected or served ineffectively.

NO INAUGURAL BALL A GOOD IDEA

By DR. FRANK CRANE

C. C. YOUNG as Governor-elect announced that there was going to be no inaugural ball when he took office. There hadn't been one for some years and he wasn't going to start one now.

Why should a Governor have an inaugural ball anyhow? He is simply the State's principal hired man and the people elected him to do a certain job and there is no reason why he should not take hold of that job unostentatiously like any other employe.

We don't have a ball when a man is elected chairman of the steel corporation, nor do you fire off a cannon when you get a new manager for your stove works. By the same token we could spare the fireworks when any man takes a political job.

It is all right to have a pow-wow in Europe when they have a new king. Kings mean something socially over there and maybe they do here, as we saw a while ago when Queen Marie was amongst us.

But Kings and Queens and such like are not indigenous to America.

We know what a hired man means and what a superintendent means and we know he is chosen to do his job as well as he can, and we will be very grateful if he undertake his job without a concomitant vaudeville entertainment.

If people want to dance and sing and drink bootleg there are plenty of places for them to do so in the various night clubs and other resorts. Let the people who like that sort of thing do that sort of thing, but the most of us are hard-working and quiet citizens, going about our business and making no fuss and feathers oyer it, and we would like to see our political managers do the same, if they don't mind.

FINDING FAULT IS EASIEST THING POSSIBLE

Finding fault is the easiest thing possible.

Especially in your home, you have seen things arranged in a way unpleasing to you and you have gotten into the habit of complaining.

There never was a home where everything and every person seemed in harmony with every other member of the household.

You must overlook lots of things for the sake of peace.

Usually it is the unimportant details that annoy you.

If you were allowed to have your way about many of these little matters you might find that your ideas might prove the less pleasing.

The grumblers, if left to their own resources, do not suit other persons any more than they are suited.

You lack much of being one hundred per cent. perfect in your judgment of how your home should be conducted.

And if every picture were hung as you suggested, if each piece of furniture occupied the place you thought it should, what then?

You'd find your ideas of place and service faulty. Your home might be some more inartistic than you think it is now.

ACTIVE

THE REV. P. J. McHUGH, S. J., dean of BOSTON COLLEGE, is one of the busiest and most popular men in Massachusetts. When classes are in full swing he answers more questions than a dozen information men at railroad terminals.

"There is enough detail to drive frantic any man who doesn't relish it," said FATHER McHUGH, "but I love the work so well that I personally answer telephone calls and do other things which my secretary might attend to, simply because I desire to keep in as close touch with the students as possible."

CHEERY.

Sporting a finely cropped beard and dressed in a smart business suit with Fedora hat to match, FORMER ALDERMAN WILLIAM BERWIN of BOSTON is a familiar figure in old Newspaper row. He saunters along WASHINGTON STREET daily and has a cheery word for friends, who regard him as a hale fellow well met.

HER COLLECTION ODD.

BOSTON and the rest of New England boast collectors of nearly everything imaginable. MRS. EMMA TUCKER of PORTSMOUTH, N. H., has one of the world's oddest collections, consisting of tobacco tags, gathered over a period of twenty-five years or more. There are only about a half dozen such collections in existence, and MRS. TUCKER says her collection is by far the largest.

DEER HOUND.

D. T. WILSON of LONG AVENUE, BELMONT, who owns the only Scottish deer hound in this section of the United States, says this breed is not only a truly gentle animal to members of the household and friends, but also a wonderful watch dog. He says that a burglar who recently tried to enter his home has reason to know the latter. The burglar broke records in getting away.

SUMMER ICE CAVES.

Iowa caves in which ice is to be found in Summer were recently described in a lengthy "special" newspaper story. GEORGE QUILTY of Thetford avenue, DORCHESTER, well-known advertising man, would like to know if a natural phenomenon has to be far away before getting "written up." He describes wells in his native town of BRANDON, VT., where there is ice that never melts, even during the hottest days of a New England Summer.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MRS. STARK has written me about her daughter Lena. Seventeen-year-old Lena, it seems, is unusually gifted. She leads all the high school in English composition; she's a perfect wonder at drawing and she takes to music as a duck does to puddles.

"Every one says she's bound to have a great career," says her proud mother. "Which talent would you advise her to develop? Which will take her furthest in life?"

I don't think it matters a hoot, lady dear, which talent she decides to exploit. There is no magic working in power of talent, itself. One talent is as good as another when you start out to achieve fame.

Talent Is Common

And although this statement may shock and annoy you, talent isn't even rare these days. It is, in fact, as common as cabbage.

The urge to draw and sing and tell tales has always been latent in human nature. Poverty, obscurity and hardship, the general drabness of life, the lack of opportunity for expression, all these handicaps prevented the development of talent in days gone by. But now, with freedom and education available for all, with color and motion and drama rioting in our streets, and with a vastly increased standard of material comfort, the buried talent is blossoming like a Spring garden.

Every high school has a score of youngsters who are really talented in the arts and sciences—youngsters who seemingly need but to put out their hands to secure the golden apple of Fame.

And yet—

How many get that apple? Or even the core?

More Than Talent

You tell 'em, Old World.

In spite of our abundance of budding genius the Success Crop is as limited as ever.

Why? Because it takes much, much more than talent to succeed.

It takes initiative, courage, perseverence, patience, humility, adaptability, tact, unlimited endurance and fighting pluck.

Drab virtues, every one of them. Tiresome, monotonous requirements that the talented Lens and Lenas despise. And they are not wholly to blame because they despise these requirements. Our get-famous-quick methods of modern education lead our brilliant youngsters to believe that the old slow methods are really unnecessary and unworthy—that genius can dispense with sweat and elbow grease.

SUCCESS
ELSIE ROBINSON

It can't.

The reward of the genius is vastly greater than that of the ditch digger—but the toil that produces that reward is just as arduous and bitter.

Unless you have good ditchdigger stuff in you, your talent is all wet, my child.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Who knows nothing base,
Fears nothing known.
—Owen Meredith.

Every man feels instinctively that all the beautiful sentiments in the world weigh less than a single lovely action. —Lowell.

True bravery is shown by performing without witness what one might be capable of doing before all the world.
La Rochefoucauld.

Ambition destroys its possessor. —Talmud.

For fools admire, but men of sense approve. —Pope.

Common natures pay with what they do, noble ones with what they are. —Schiller.

There can be no profit if the outlay exceeds it. —Platus.

The saying that beauty is but skin deep is but a skin deep saying. —Ruskin.

Affliction's sons are brothers in distress;
A brother to relieve, how exquisite the bliss! —Burns.

A man's best things are nearest him.
Lie close about his feet.

Age too shines out: and, garrulous, recounts the feats of youth. —Thomson.

Correcting Compass

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

THE Department of Commerce through the Coast and Geodetic Survey, has just published a pamphlet, prepared by Daniel L. Hazard of the Division of Terrestrial Magnetism, on "the Magnetic Declination in the United States in 1925." It is called "Special Publication No. 126," and it costs ten cents though it is worth ten dollars to anyone who has an intelligent interest in the great phenomena of nature on which our existence depends.

The large and beautiful chart that it contains is as valuable and as indispensable to anyone who ever consults a magnetic compass needle as a chart of the ocean is to a navigator. In truth, without the guidance of this chart, your compass may be not only practically useless to you, but a very dangerous deceiver.

The child-like faith of many persons in a compass needle is amusing. They think it is a dog that never goes or leads astray. If it tells them that a certain direction is north, they believe it as they believe Scripture. In fact, within the limits of the United States compass "North" may be more than twenty degrees away from true North!

Broadly speaking, if you are east of a line running from Beaufort, N. C., to the northernmost point of the Canadian shore of Lake Superior, your compass needle will point more or less west of north, beginnning with less than a degree in the eastern side of that line, and increasing to more than twenty degrees in northern Maine.

On the other hand, if you take the same needle west of the line, called the "Agonic Line," it will point more east of north until the error rises above twenty degrees in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington.

Thus there is a difference of more than forty degrees between the direction in which the compass needle points in going from the northeastern to the northwestern corner of the United States.

But this is not all. The Agonic Line is not a straight line; it has many curious turns and twists, making great loops, especially in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Then the variation of the needle from true north, which is called "magnetic declination," itself undergoes a variable annual change and also a slight daily change.

The practical effects of these changes are in some cases very great. Old land surveys were made by compass, and many are still so made.

But when a question of boundary arises, and a new survey has to be made, the surveyor can only proceed through a knowledge of the changes of declination that the compass needle has undergone since the original work.
